

The main topic of this thesis is Japanese literature written in Chinese from the beginnings of Japanese literature to year 1600. It contains short descriptions of important literary works. It focuses on Sugawara no Michizane and his works. The main aim of this work is to create an introduction to this in the Czech Republic almost neglected part of Japanese literary tradition and to show its richness and main characteristics.