

The thesis is focused both on the family, child, and the state authorities and their jurisdiction. The aim of my study was to determine how the activities are regulated by the state as child protection authority in the various legal sectors. It consists of nine main chapters and several sections. Of which I will base institutes: History, concepts, importance of laws, family, child protection, court work, activities, authorities, rights and duties of children and parents, file documentation. It also includes a list of legislation addressing child protection. There is also a treatment and its important international conventions. The basic concepts I deal with most concept, the child's welfare "as well as the best interest of the child" The purpose of analysis, legislation was to draw attention to its shortcomings, neucelenost, but also find the positives versus the time past, to draw attention to the preparation of new legislation. The last chapters are devoted to various activities to authorities OSPOD when working with family is available, the study of documents, data collection techniques. The conclusion is expressed views on the current legal system, its shortcomings and vision for the future .
