

TITLE:

Popularity of physical education and sport among pupils of younger and older school age.

AUTHOR:

Lenka Floreová

DEPARTMENT:

Department of Physical Education

SUPERVISOR:

PhDr. PaedDr. Ladislav Kašpar, Ph.D.

ABSTRACT:

The aim of this work is finding popularity of PE and sport for pupils younger and older school age in Kladno and the surrounding villages. The survey was conducted through questionnaires completed by 313 respondents. The questionnaire was focused on finding the popularity of sports and attitude of pupils toward physical educations. The goal was to find out what respondents like and dislike at PE classes, what other sport activities pupils perform outside of school and what attracts them try. Questionnaire was also finding out reasons of the popularity and unpopularity of PE and sports activities. The results of this thesis were evaluated using mathematical and statistical methods, and inscribed in the charts and tables. Both sexes were compared on the basis of responses of the research as same as younger and older school ages, and respondents from Kladno and rural schools in Kladno neighbourhood.

KEYWORDS:

Popularity, physical education, sports, school age, older school age.