

Abstract

The bachelor thesis is divided into two parts. The translation of the chapters in Zelenkov's book The World's Religions: Past and Present makes the first part up, the second one is represented by expert commentary of the translation, which consists of five sections - analysis of the original text, approach to translation, translation method, problems of translation and translation shifts taxonomy.