

The theoretical part of my thesis deals with the sport karate training, its components, improving motor skills which are typical for karate and other factors affecting the results of sport training. In the empirical part I find, based on direct interviews with individual representatives, national coaches, difference or similarity of their preparation for the World Championships or European Championships in Karate (Kata men) in their final part of season.