

RESUME

The times based on one individual's decision about which school to study to be able to choose further continuous and smooth career path has been over. As a result of current global and local social changes everybody should be prepared to the every possible change in career. Nevertheless the first choice of career is still an important milestone and can direct the individual career, but it is not the only key milestone, that determines the individual career once and for ever. People in contemporary world should be able to respond quickly to constant changes, evaluate new situations and be able to make the right decisions. The widespread myth is that success means to raise money as quickly as possible to guarantee the freedom and happiness. But a real success is a contented life, which is a long way over such values as for example certainty that we are doing the work that we like and which fills us with satisfaction. Individual goal is to focus on the abilities and skills so that the decision directs to such a career path where one will be able to optimally exploit one's potential in a future career. In the beginning of a career path a family as a primary socializing agent and the closest partner institution in the life of the pupil should fulfil its role in close cooperation with the school that shares responsibility for the upbringing and education of youth. However, an implementation of these principles into school curriculum and education so that the general population is familiarized with the rules since childhood is easier and more efficient way than in the future to provide career guidance to all individuals. The shift in people's minds can not be done at once. School should play a key role in the spreading of this new approach through career advisors, teachers and experts on human resources, but always in partnership with the family, which is influential factor in the decision making process of the pupil or career choice.
