

Abstract

This thesis “Protection of pregnant women and mothers in labour-law relations and their material security” comprehensively analyzes labour legislation and social security protection of pregnant women and mothers in the Czech legislation. The purpose of this thesis is to evaluate the elements of this protection in the Czech legislation with respect to their correctness and fairness and if necessary to propose the procedure of de lege ferenda.