Abstract

Theory of coaching, main theme of the thesis is now adays a very important area in Sociology of management. This method of employee de velopment and approach in management of organisations is described theoretica lly and differentiated form other methods of personal growth. When assessing manageme nt of organisations based on coaching the author expects that this approach will be used by the companies that build $their culture \, on \, Freedom \, at \, work. \, Concept \, of \, Freedo$ matworkasanunexploredtrendin theSociologyofmanagementisdepictedtheoretical lyandpractically. Methodological part of the thesis describes qualitative and quantitativ epilotresearchthattheauthorconducted in Czech organisations that claim to use Freedom atwork. Main goal of the research was comparison of theory Freedom at work and its praxis and evaluation of actual application of coaching approach in management. At the end of t he thesis author depicts the most importantmilestones in the theory of leadership th at influenced the origins of Freedom at workandcoaching.

Keywords

Coaching, Freedomatwork. Leadershipstyle, Empoye edevelopment