

TITLE:

Formation and evolution of Brno's suburb Černá Pole

AUTHOR:

Jakub Sluka

DEPARTMENT:

Department of History and History Didactics

SUPERVISOR:

Mgr. Dušan Foltýn

ABSTRACT:

The bachelor thesis deals with origin and development of the residential quarter Černá Pole, namely from the settlement of this area to 1945. Attention is mainly focused on the 20th century. The part regarding Antiquity is primarily based on published researches of various archaeological digs. The investigation of the period from the 14th to 18th century is grounded in preserved archival materials, especially documents. The gradual expansion of street network and local housing development, with emphasis on a period housing situation, in Brno from the beginning of building development in the 19th century to the end of World War Two is minutely studied by means of map collections, old photos and postcards, period newspapers, and a lot of scholarly books and articles. A particular focus is devoted to some important architectural buildings and interesting events in the history of Černá Pole. The pictorial supplement includes a lot of photos depicting present-day appearance of the quarter.

KEYWORDS:

Brno, Černá Pole, Lužánky, Villa Tugendhat, Children's Hospital, Mendel University, monasteries