

Abstract

Title: The Issue of Returning of Competitive Tennis Players post Game Break

Objectives of work: The aim of my bachelor thesis is to determine the course of two professional tennis players' career in connection with its long-term interruption. Surveys the circumstances and psychical and physical condition of athletes before, during and after a tennis pause. The reasons and effect of career interruptions will be explored.

Method: Will be used methods as narrative interview – annotated transcription technique, quantitative interview, analysis and comparison.

Results: In this work have been identified three scientific questions, all managed to handle. The result of the research is finding that a pause in a professional tennis player career did not have a negative impact on personal life, while in both cases the impact was positive. Negatively impressed by their performance, because no one in the interval of pause trained fully. After return to the tournaments both players met the targets set out to do with the coach.

Key words: tennis, professional tennis player, ATP, performance, personal life, sports goals