

The purpose of my thesis is to analyze the moral and material satisfaction in Czech civil law. It provides a deep interpretation of these institutes which represent an important phenomenon in our time. The importance of protection of personality increased in the 20th century in connection with development of human and personal rights. In last years also according to mass media and global society. The aim was not only to give the interpretation of basic institutes and instruments of protection of personality but also to show more extensive circumstances of this topic, set into relevant judicial cases and European aspects.

It goes from an introduction to moral and material satisfaction, basic institutions relating to the protection of personality, moral and material satisfaction, history, constitutional law, criminal law, administrative law to presumptions of remedying of protection of personality, the aspects of time perspective, proposal of new Czech civil code, changes to be made in legislation and conclusion.
