

Abstrakt

This thesis deals with dramatizations of literary works that were introduced at the National Theatre after 1990. Compares prose texts with newly formed theatrical texts. It also focuses on the transformation of interpretations of individual works, which occurred as a result of dramatization. For each unfinished work also always gives relevant circumstances relating to the production.