

TITLE:

Teaching aids for work with verbs of movement at elementary level in Russian language teaching

SUMMARY:

This diploma thesis deals with the topic of Russian verbs of movement. The aim of the thesis is to compile a comprehensive set of practical exercises and additional teaching materials (work sheets), which can be used as a supporting material in Russian language teaching. The set of practical exercises and additional teaching material is suitable for students at the age of thirteen years and above. The thesis is divided into two parts – theoretical and practical. The theoretical part defines verbs of movement from a linguistic aspect and generally characterizes the didactic approaches to teaching foreign language grammar. Practical part includes a comprehensive set of practical exercises and additional teaching materials focused on a presentation and practice of selected verbs of movement.
