

ABSTRACT

Our study concerns the problematics of interests of Asperger syndrome children. In the theoretical part, the diagnosis of Asperger syndrome in the context of Autistic specter disorders is being reviewed. Moreover, we define Asperger syndrome compared with other Autistic specter disorders and present methods of diagnosis. The whole study is focused on the area of the family of a child with disabilities. The empirici part describes our research, that focuses on defining the specific interests of Asperger syndrome children through analysis and comparsion of these interests.