

The remnants of nestorian christianity in Inner Mongolia

This thesis is focused on the tradition of nestorian christianity in Mongolia, especially in Inner Mongolia region. It summarizes available information about nestorian effect among the tribes of steppe until the 14th century and their influence on the tradition of these tribes. The thesis analysis nestorian situation at The Mongolian royal court during the biggest expansion of The Mongol Empire. The work furthermore also summarizes nestorian monuments and relics discovered within the area of Inner Mongolia where the Ongut tribe, known for their relation to christianity, settled.