

This bachelor's thesis deals with the influence of leisure institutions in shaping the lifestyle of older school age children. Its aim is to determine to what extent are involted in shaping the lifestyle of these children. It also discusses the question of the possible negative effects of modern society on the lifestyle of the child population.