

This Bachelor thesis deals with the issue of extracurricular education in Decin. The goal of the thesis is to analyse the offer of extracurricular activities in leisure time centres and basic schools. The partial goal of the thesis is to find out whether the conditions for providing extracurricular education in leisure time centres and basic schools can influence the future of leisure time centres.

The theoretical part is based on literature, laws, regulations and other available resources. The research part deals with the Offer and the conditions for the implementation of leisure assets. The population of respondents among children and parents. Selected sample comes from a group of people participating in pet education for children and youth in educational institutions in Decin.

Contribution of this thesis is to understand what influences the choice of leisure activities. How important the strategic planning is and the use of SWOT analysis in working on the planning. Reminding the importance of marketing activities to promote leisure time centres.