

Abstrakt v anglickém jazyce

The thesis is dedicated to the awareness of students about the possibilities of graduation classes have HPV viruses. Introduction is devoted to the description of the theoretical and empirical chapters and a brief explanation of the issue of HPV viruses.

In the beginning of the theoretical part presents brief characteristics of HPV viruses along with the history of HPV research, the incidence of disease caused due to HPV infection and disease transmission. In other chapters are discussed in more detail specific disease arising from the infection HPV. In the end is dedicated to the prevention of HPV malignancies.

To research empirical part is finding HPV awareness and knowledge of the issue for students graduation classes. By questionnaire are collected knowledge of issue of HPV infection.

Key words: awareness of pupils, HPV viruses, HPV infection, HPV disease