

Abstract

The thesis „The expropriation and other restriction of property right in administrative law” deals with legislation of institutes of deprivation or restriction of property right in administrative law. The thesis concerns mostly with expropriation, with the current legislation and also with the legislation which preceded. A brief characteristic of the Slovak and English legislation was presented.

The second part of the thesis is an analysis of other restriction based on the acts of administrative law, for both of restrictions based on the legislative acts and on administrative acts.