

Abstract:

The Bachelor Dissertation inquires the knowledge of the hospitalized elderly people about the medical services and social welfare. It also inquires whether they make use of these services when they are in need of them, and whether these services are available for them.

The problem package that is studied in this dissertation thesis will be investigated by the quantitative method.

Key words:

senior in hospital, follow-up care, health services, payments for hospital services, care allowance