

Abstract

Title: Comparison of the ice hockey players working relationship in Czech Republic and abroad

Goals: Comparison of duties and rights of individual work-legal relations for ice hockey players in the first two best national competitions in different European countries.

Method: For the treatment of this topic has been used secondary data analysis and desk research in economics, management, and professional sports. For qualitative research sample of hockey players and managers interview method was used.

Results: They simulate application of individual abroad work-legal relations into the Czech conditions, even commentaries and comparison to nowadays conditions. They suggest more favorable conditions for the national competition.

Key words: professional sport, ice – hockey, professional ice – hockey player, non- amateur ice – hockey player, self – employed – definition, right and duties, players contract, dependent activity – rights and duties, work contract, ice – hockey league.