

Abstract

The thesis contains the legal theoretical study of two phenomena, namely political ideas and ideas of the state, the rise, development and co-relationship of the two phenomena, as well as their relation to the phenomenon of law in the past as well as in the present (times). The thesis classifies the basic terms and categories of the state and law, contains the outline of the chosen chapters from the development of political and state philosophy, including the classification of the main historical and contemporary political tendencies. It also contains the survey of the basic theories of the state and developmental types of ideas of the state. Consequently it presents the core meaning of the legal aspects originated in political ideas and ideas of the state and individual distinctive questions and theoretical problems related to the subject of the thesis. Finally is the thesis focused on the described relationship of political ideas and the ideas of the state is critically evaluated-assessed with respect to the applicability of the assumed concept in the orientation in political situation of contemporary states.