

ABSTRACT:

I am interested in the problematics of the professional career of the experienced school headmasters who have been at their work position for more than 10 years in my final bachelor's thesis. I am concerned about headmasters from different types of schools, with different number of pupils and students as well as different region of work. The goal was to create the file of the most often occurrence of motivation factors and of inspirational sources of that target group. My work is based on all involved conditions, in which these people perform their job. It comes out the requests, which are laid on them and out of expectation which is closely connected to this sort of demanding job. The work reveals the most common motivational factors and inspirational sources of experienced headmasters through the qualitative empirical research and through the oriented method of life history. Furthermore it releases them in the particular context. At the same time it brings the knowledge about the importance of motivational factors and inspiration from the perspective of headmasters of schools themselves.

KEYWORDS:

an experienced headmaster, careers, motivation, motivational factors, the source of inspiration, a different angle of view