

Title:

Utilisation of the Individual Education Programme for students with dyslexia

Author:

Anna Čápová

Department:

Departement of Special Education

Supervisor:

Mgr. Lenka Felcmanová

Abstract:

The main goal in this thesis titled „The application of individual education programme (IEP) for pupils with specific learning disabilities (SLD)“ to examine the efficiency of education of students with SLD according to IEP, who are included in regular elementary school and the awareness of the „parent-studentteacher“ unit about the topic of specific learning disabilities and about using IEP at schools. Theoretical part contains brief characteristics of SLD, forms of education for pupils with SLD and legislation that regulates such education. Practical part presents findings from qualitative research using interview as the research method. The target of the research is comparison of statements of the student in second grade at elementary school, his teachers and his parent related to education according to IEP.

Keywords:

Individual Education Programme, dyslexia, specific learning disabilities, Special Education, people with disabilities, integration