

Abstract

This Bachelor thesis deals with the history of vocational education in Mlada Boleslav, which was undoubtedly largely influenced by the automaker Skoda Auto. It focuses in particular on the history of the vocational school in Skoda Auto and the establishment of the first private vocational school in the Czech Republic. It also mentions the history of the town Mlada Boleslav and the history of Skoda Auto which are both tightly bound and closely related to the topic. The aim of the work was to map and outline the history of the vocational school in Skoda Auto, of which, unfortunately, not many historical documents survived. Data from particular periods of time trackable in archives and registers are regrettably not continuous, and thus interviews with contemporaries of that time were of a great support to my work.
