

Many card games can not be played on a PC at the moment. The goal of this thesis is to design and implement program for creating card games. Part of the work is to design a program language for entry rules of the games. Program is allowing network playing and is also containing artificial intelligence. Program is platform independent.