

Abstract

President Vaclav Havel's attitude to the division of Czechoslovakia in years 1992/1993.

The Bachelor thesis is focused on the Vaclav Havel's attitude to the main events of the 1990s, especially the division of Czechoslovakia, in the context of the major events from 1989 to 1993. There is the focus on events after November 1989, the commencement of the opposition movement, Civic Forum, thanks to which Vaclav Havel came to the force. Vaclav Havel progressively became a prominent person who was the speaker of the whole society. Afterwards Vaclav Havel was elected president, he made a contribution to the transition to a democratic system of government. There is also described the process of changing the name of the state, which has proven to be one of the most difficult to resolve disputes between Czechs and Slovaks, like that the controversy over the Competence Act and the contract between the Czech and Slovak Republics, which are also analyzed in this work. I also consistently described the parliamentary elections of June 1992, the results of which led to the division of Czechoslovakia and the presidential elections, held in early July 1992, including a large number of comments from newspapers of the time.
