

The aim is to introduce the issue of procrastination and suggest how to work with it to affect our lives as little as possible, and then integrate it with the Christian faith so as to be applicable within the religious environment. In our research we focus on procrastination and its solutions at leading in the Church.