

Abstrakt

The bachelor thesis focuses on the means universities in the Czech Republic use to make studies accessible to students with hearing impairment (students who are deaf, hard of hearing and deafened). The thesis is a survey. The aim is to map the current extent of services (such as interpreting, visualisation, lecture/seminar recording) that support the students in their studies at particular public universities in connection with the contemporary legislation.