

Univerzita Karlova v Praze

Filozofická fakulta

Ústav anglického jazyka a didaktiky

Andrea Čapková

K otázce adverbiálních faux amis mezi angličtinou a francouzštinou:
kontrastivní pohled na actually a actuellement

On adverbial English – French faux amis: a contrastive view of actually and actuellement

Bakalářská práce

Prohlašuji, že jsem bakalářskou práci vypracovala samostatně, že jsem řádně citovala všechny použité prameny a literaturu a že práce nebyla využita v rámci jiného vysokoškolského studia či k získání jiného nebo stejného titulu.

V Praze dne 1. 6. 2015

.....

Souhlasím se zapůjčením bakalářské práce ke studijním účelům.

I have no objections to the BA thesis being borrowed and used for study purposes.

Děkuji vedoucí své práce doc. PhDr. Markétě Malé, Ph.D. za trpělivost, odborné vedení a všechny cenné rady a připomínky, které mi při vypracování bakalářské práce poskytla. Dále bych chtěla poděkovat PhDr. Olze Nádvorníkové, Ph.D. za pomoc při vyhledávání francouzského korpusu.

Abstract

The subject of the present thesis is a contrastive analysis of two formally similar adverbs, the English actually and the French actuellement, which despite their common etymological origins nowadays render different meaning. The theoretical chapter deals with classification of the two adverbs; in particular their semantic roles and syntactic functions. The latter section of this chapter is concerned with the historical development of the semantic meaning and concentrates on the common etymological origins as well as on the possible interchangeability of the adverbs.

The research part focuses on the detailed analysis of the two adverbs based on the examples excerpted from the synchronic monolingual corpora (British National Corpus for English and Lextutor-Parlé for French) and describes their semantic roles as well as syntactic functions. The second part of this chapter is an analysis of the translation equivalents of actually and actuellement. The material for this section was excerpted from the parallel corpus InterCorp (fiction Core and the subcorpus Europarl).

This thesis aims to identify possible discourse functions developed in the French actuellement and explore the translation correspondences of the two adverbs.

Key words: actually, actuellement, discourse functions, faux-amis

Abstrakt

Předmětem této bakalářské práce je kontrastivní analýza dvou formálně obdobných adverbií, anglického actually a francouzského actuellement, které však přes svůj společný etymologický vývoj dnes mají zcela rozdílný lexikální význam. Teoretická kapitola se zabývá klasifikací obou adverbií, především z hlediska sémantických rolí a syntaktických funkcí. Další část teoretické kapitoly pojednává o historickém vývoji sémantického významu obou adverbií a především se zaměřuje na společný etymologický základ a možnou zaměnitelnost těchto dvou slov.

Praktická část se věnuje detailní analýze obou adverbií, na příkladech vybraných ze synchronních jednojazyčných korpusů (British National Corpus pro angličtinu a Lextutor-Parlé v případě francouzštiny) a popisuje jejich sémantické role a syntaktické funkce. Druhou částí analytické kapitoly je studie překladových protějšků actually a actuellement. Materiál k této části je čerpán z paralelního korpusu InterCorp (jádro a subkorpus Europarl).

Práce si klade za cíl zjištění potenciálních diskurzivních funkcí u francouzského actuellement a ověření problematičnosti u překladu obou adverbií.

Klíčová slova: actually, actuellement, diskurzní funkce, faux-amis

Contents

List of Tables	viii
List of Figures	ix
List of abbreviations	x
1 INTRODUCTION	1
2 THEORETICAL BACKGROUND	2
2.1 Actually	2
2.1.1 Actually as a subjunct	3
2.1.2 Actually as a disjunct	3
2.1.3 Actually as a discourse particle	3
2.1.4 Semantic meanings	4
2.1.5 The position of actually	4
2.1.6 Discursive functions	5
2.2 Actuellement	7
2.2.1 The distribution of actuellement	7
2.2.2 Semantic meaning of actuellement	8
2.2.3 Functions of actuellement	9
2.3 Diachronic development of actually and actuellement	9
2.3.1 Diachronic development of actually and actuellement in the 13 th –16 th century	9
2.3.2 Divergence of actually and actuellement in the 17 th and 18 th century	11
2.4 Synchronic correspondences	12
3 MATERIALS AND METHODS	15
3.1 Materials	15
3.2 Method	16

3.2.1	Analysis	16
3.2.2	Excluded excerpts	17
4 ANALYSIS		18
4.1	Analysis of actually	18
4.1.1	Syntactical functions of actually	18
4.1.2	Adverbial usage of actually	18
4.1.3	Collocations of adverbial use of actually	20
4.1.4	Actually as a discourse particle	20
4.1.5	Discursive functions of actually	22
4.2	Analysis of actuellement	25
4.2.1	The position of actuellement	25
4.2.2	The lexical meaning of actuellement	27
4.3	Translation equivalents – InterCorp (Core)	29
4.3.1	Translation equivalents of actually	29
4.3.2	Translation equivalents of actuellement	30
4.4	Translation equivalents – InterCorp (Europarl)	32
4.4.1	Translation equivalents of actuellement (Europarl)	32
4.4.2	Translation equivalents of actually (Europarl)	34
5 CONCLUSIONS		37
RESUMÉ		39
REFERENCES AND SOURCES		42
APPENDIX		44

List of Tables

2.1	Most frequently occurring correspondences of actually	14
2.2	Most frequently occurring correspondences of actuellement	14
4.1	Translation equivalents of actually , (InterCorp v7 – Core, English sources)	30
4.2	Translation equivalents of actuellement , (InterCorp v7 – Core, French sources)	32
4.3	Translation equivalents of actuellement (InterCorp v7 – Europarl, French sources)	34
4.4	Translation equivalents of actually (InterCorp v7 – Europarl, English sources)	36

List of Figures

2.1	The position of actually within the sentence	2
4.1	Syntactic functions of actually (demographic subcorpus, BNC)	19
4.2	Position of a discourse marker actually (demographic subcorpus, BNC)	24
4.3	Position of the adverbial actuellement (Parlé 150 000, Lextutor) . . .	26

List of abbreviations

BNC British National Corpus

GMDF Grammaire méthodique du français

LGSWE Longman Grammar of Spoken and Written English

Chapter 1

INTRODUCTION

The aim of the present thesis is to contrast two formally analogous adverbs the English actually and the French actuellement and to delineate their semantic and syntactic differences. While actually is a multifunctional adverb adopting the role of content disjunct or one of a discourse marker, actuellement conveys a single lexical meaning of an adverbial of time.

The theoretical part describes the present-day semantic meanings of the two adverbs and further discusses their syntactic functions based on their position in the sentence. In the case of actually it depicts additional discourse functions. Furthermore, the thesis presents a comprehensive study of a diachronic development of the adverbs indicating their common etymological origins. Finally, the last section of the theoretical part reviews synchronic correspondences of the English actually and the French actuellement. The theoretical chapter is based on the grammar books written by Quirk et al. (1985) and Riegel et al. (1994), and studies by Aijmer (2000) and Defour et al. (2010).

The analytical chapter of the thesis presents a corpus-based study of actually and actuellement. At first, we are going to consult synchronic monolingual corpora, in order to assert the semantic meaning and syntactic functions of the two adverbs, analysing 50 occurrences of actually from the BCN and 33 occurrences of actuellement from the Lextutor-Parlé. Based on the theoretical chapter we hope to confirm the hypothesis of the development of discourse functions in the French actuellement. Additionally, we are going to examine all the examples of actually and actuellement from the fiction core of the parallel corpus InterCorp (32 occurrences of actually and 12 occurrences of actuellement) to determine their translation equivalents. The final section of the analytical part will be concerned with a detailed analysis of 50 examples of actually and 57 examples of actuellement from the Europarl subcorpus of the parallel corpus InterCorp, which should enable us to explore the faux-amis status of the two adverbs.

Chapter 2

THEORETICAL BACKGROUND

2.1 Actually

According to Quirk et al. (1985) the English word actually is a multifunctional adverb, expressing the speaker's appeal to the actuality or reality of the assertion. Based on its position in the utterance and its meaning we can distinguish whether it acts as a subjunct or a disjunct. Moreover, Aijmer claims that besides the adverbial uses actually has developed functions of a discourse particle through the process of grammaticalisation (Aijmer 2000, 252). As LGSWE observes, actually (introduced as a stance adverbial) mostly occurs in conversation, where it serves to accentuate the actuality or reality of an assertion. However, it is infrequent in written discourse such as fiction or academic prose and almost absent from other forms of speech such as news (LGSWE, 859).

The position of the adverb in the sentence is flexible which is demonstrated by Diagram (1) below, which presents potential positions of actually in the sentence. The numbers 1-10 represents these optional positions of actually as Aijmer claims that we can insert the word freely into the model sentence. The numbers in the diagram represent the words and the adverb can be inserted in the slots between them.

she	is	not	as	pretty	as	she	might	have	been
1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

Figure 2.1: The position of actually within the sentence (Aijmer 2000, 256)

Actually can thus occur in initial, medial and final position, depending on its function. Initial and final positions are reserved for actually assuming the role of “discourse particles [as these] are brackets organizing talk, for instance by initiating and terminating spates of activity” (Schiffrin 1987, cf. also Aijmer 2000, 254). The whole scale of medial positions (initial M, medial M and end M) is often used for subjunct and disjunct functions of actually (Quirk et al., 1985, 493).

2.1.1 Actually* as a subjunct

If the adverb appears in a pre-verbal position, it assumes a semantic role of an emphaser, which has a reinforcing effect on the truth value of the clause or a part of the clause to which it applies (Quirk et al. 1985, 583). As an emphaser the adverb can appear with any predication or verb, and often tends to co-occur with clausal negation. In such cases actually can lie within (ex. 2) or outside (ex. 3) the scope of clause negation (Quirk et al. 1985, 587).

(2) He didn't actually sit next to her. (Ibid.)

(3) He actually didn't sit next to her. (Ibid)

We have to distinguish whether the negation applies to the whole utterance, (ex.2) or not (ex.3) In example (2) the actual fact is that he did not sit next to her, while example (3) conveys that it is not an actual fact that he sat next to her.

The emphaser can appear in the interrogative, as well as in the imperative sentence (ex. 4).

(4) Don't actually hate him for it – it wasn't really his fault. (Ibid., 586)

2.1.2 Actually* as a disjunct

When actually occurs after the verb it functions as a content disjunct presenting a “comment on the truth value of what is said”. The adverb thus presents the sense in which the speaker considers the utterance to be true or false (Quirk et al. 1985, 621).

2.1.3 Actually* as a discourse particle

In order to distinguish between the usage of an adverbial actually and that of a discourse marker, we often consider its position in the utterance as well as its prosodic properties (Aijmer 2000, 256). Nonetheless, as Watts argues, even actually as an adverbial has certain cohesive functions in the discourse (Watts 1988, 251).

2.1.4 Semantic meanings

In contrast with the role of an emphaser and that of content disjunct, Lenk outlines the three main functions of a discourse particle actually as an opinion, objection marker and topic change (Lenk 1998, 157). It has acquired these functions when shifting from propositional to discourse meanings, as actually has undergone the process of grammaticalisation when it developed from an intensifying adverb to a sentence adverb and finally into a discourse particle. (Aijmer 2000, 254). As a result of this development, the meaning of the discourse particle is more subjective than that of the adverbial. Actually indicates the highest degree of subjectivity when used utterance-finally in an informal conversation (Aijmer 2000, 255).

Similarly to the adverbial, the discourse particle¹ actually is multifunctional. Nonetheless as a discourse marker actually primarily serves to convey a discrepancy between what is being said and the reality (Aijmer 2000, 252). Moreover, Smith & Jucker define the semantic meaning of the adverb through contrasting it with other discourse particles occurring in similar positions such as in fact. They hence imply that for actually it is characteristic that it indicates a slight reinterpretation or adjustment of perspective of the preceding statement (Smith & Jucker 2000, 222).

2.1.5 The position of actually

To delimit semantic meaning of the particle, we should also discuss its syntactic position, as we distinguish four different alternatives.

Firstly, when actually appears utterance initially, we recognize its cohesive functions as it elaborates on preceding speech. In this position, actually may constitute a separate unit, or be integrated in the following utterance. This case, however seems to be marginal, considering that in Aijmer's study only 12.8 % of the occurrences were incorporated in the subsequent discourse. (Aijmer 2000, 257).

Secondly, if the discourse particle occurs either utterance-finally (ex. 5) or clause-finally, it has predominantly a social function, which helps to put an emphasis on the interaction between the speaker and the interlocutor (Aijmer 2000, 258).

- (5) A: Yes, people didn't think you were going to be in today actually.
B: Well they never think I'm in today (actually).

Finally, Aijmer mentions a post-head position (ex. 6) in which actually contributes to an intensification. The original utterance is disrupted and the situation thus requires the interlocutor to reprocess the proposed statement. This employment of actually is listed among the discourse markers, as unlike the adverbial subjunct, actually in the post-position is rather subjective (Aijmer 2000, 259).

¹In this thesis the terms discourse marker and discourse particle are used as synonyms.

- (6) We've, we've made quite a round trip, actually, in the last three years.
 (Ibid)

2.1.6 Discursive² functions

Overall, discursive functions of the adverb can be divided into two categories, actually as a contrast marker and actually as an emphatic particle accentuating individual position or adding information and elaborating on the preceding discourse.

Contrastive functions are employed if the speaker intends to signal the reversal of his attitude towards the earlier statement. Employment of actually as a contrastive marker is apparent in those utterances where the marker could be reinforced by the conjunction but, such as but actually. Similarly, we encounter no actually which according to Aijmer indicates “a correction, counter-claim or incipient disagreement with preceding speaker” (Aijmer 2000, 267). Actually thus enables the speaker to distance himself from the factuality of the preceding utterance, to convey a different viewpoint or to focus on another aspect of the discussed topic (Aijmer 2000, 265). Aijmer illustrates this usage in a discussion of two speakers about their education (ex.7).

- (7) A: So I went to the School of Applied Linguistics in Winchester
 B: Mm
 A: Actually, I applied to the British Council and failed to get in.

As Taglicht suggests actually represents a polite and appeasing form of correction when the speaker wants to revise a statement of his interlocutor. The meaning can be further mitigated by the addition of well. Actually can hence serve as a reconciliation of a potential conflict (Taglicht 2001, 2f). We can therefore assert that actually as a contrastive marker demonstrates interpersonal discursive functions as well.

Apart from the contrastive functions, actually is often used in order to introduce further evidence or offer a clarification of the earlier assertion. In this case the marker can be paraphrased by and actually which signals the additive function of the particle. Moreover, the additional piece of information is presented as a surprising element of the statement, as actually draws emphasis to the utterance. Correspondingly, the marker can be employed to signal self-correction or an elaboration upon the speaker's statement (Aijmer 2000, 270).

²Terms discursive functions and discourse functions are here used interchangeably as synonyms.

- (8) but wait till you have have a baby. Cos you'll find sort of dirty nappies in every corner and sort of banana skins all over the place. I have a cousin a bit like you, actually. He used to throw his children bananas to eat when they were hungry. (Ibid)

Furthermore, actually serves as an emphatic marker when the utterance it introduces provides a justification or an elaboration expressing the speaker's individual point of view. According to Aijmer such use usually correlates with a phrase commenting upon the speaker's belief: actually I think or referring to the truthfulness of the statement: to tell you the honest truth (Aijmer 2000, 269).

Actually in the role of an emphatic marker appears in a conversation of a medical nurse recounting her experience of applying for a job and being received by a "seedy old bachelor" who wants to seduce her. Actually here offers an explanation for her lack of suspicion (ex. 9) (Aijmer 2000, 269).

- (9) A: he orders me to put my coat on that chair, sit on that chair. And I thought, yes, that's fine, don't like that coat very much anyway.
 (laughs)
 B: (laughs)
 A: Actually to tell the honest truth, nothing had occurred to me by then at all. I still wasn't even slightly suspicious, being a very silly girl. (Ibid)

Lastly, when actually appears in the end-position, it conveys very little contrastive function and it mainly acts as a softener of the interaction between the speaker and the interlocutor. It is important to remark that it is practically semantically empty and its major purpose is to denote the subjectivity of the utterance. In (ex. 10) actually serves as a politeness marker.

- (10) A: This, this is very interesting, actually. Because I'm quite sure that, that, that, that we're wrong. I, I'm sure the...
 B: Yes?
 A: Americans were right over this [ə] this Cornell business. (Aijmer 2000, 272).

When actually co-occurs with negation it seems to convey defensive attitude of the speaker. In (ex. 11) speakers discuss their reaction to being recorded.

- (11) A: What were you saying about Dilys?
 B: We should bring Dilys along. She'd talk the head off the tape recorder.
 A: I think you're more conscious of it than I am
 B: Why?
 A: You just seem to be. The way you say things.
 B: I'm not, actually. I'd just, I'd... (Ibid)

2.2 Actuellement

Based on the morphological structure of the English actually and the French word actuellement we can assert that they both belong to the part of speech of adverbs. Both adverbs are formed from an adjective through an addition of equivalent -ly/-ment suffixes. Despite their similar form the adverbs differ significantly in their semantic meaning as well as in their syntactic functions. Riegel et al. (1994, 652) place actuellement among the adverbials of time.

2.2.1 The distribution of actuellement

Similarly, to other spatio-temporal adverbs it can either precede or follow the utterance. According to Defour et al. (2010, 186), actuellement appears most frequently in the final position. The (ex. 12) illustrates the occurrence of actuellement in the initial position.

- (12) J'en ai, enfin, fini avec le Buddha ! (je lirai néanmoins le livre du père Baudry, par scrupule et pour vider la question autant que possible).
Actuellement, j'en suis aux religions de la babylonie. (Frantext, Flaubert Gustave, Correspondance : supplément : 1871)

I have finally finished the Buddha! (I will nonetheless read the book by father Baudry, out of scruple and to settle the matter as definitely as possible). Actuellement, I am reading on the religions of Babylonia. (Defour et al. 2010, 186).

Sentence initial employment of the adverb has become more frequent from the 18th century onwards. The utterance-initial position appears to be rather frequent in the spoken discourse (44,54% of the occurrences in Defour's Corpaix study). These data suggest that actuellement might have acquired certain pragmatic functions. In (ex. 13) actuellement seems to have non-temporal meaning as the speaker introduces a specification of the given information, which is classified as a pragmatic usage (Defour et al. 2010, 188).

- (13) [...] je sais pas si tu connais le problème de de Sri Lanka... à Sri Lanka il y a une guerre... un genre de guerre civile actuellement... entre deux ethnies il... y a... euh l'ethnie qui a toujours vécu à Sri Lanka... hum..... comment et les Tamils... il y a les Cinghalais donc c'est l'ethnie qui a toujours vécu à Sri Lanka.... (Corpaix)

[...] I don't know whether you are familiar with the problem of Sri Lanka... in Sri Lanka there is a war going on... a sort of civil war actuellement... between two ethnicities there... is a... uh the ethnicity that has always lived in Sri Lanka... um... how and the Tamils... there are the Singhalese so that is the ethnicity that has always lived in Sri Lanka... (Ibid)

2.2.2 Semantic meaning of actuellement

The meaning of the present day actuellement is restricted to the reference to the current moment. Its meaning seems to be strictly temporal considering that actuellement is defined as *dans les circonstances actuelles*³ (Tresor de la Langue Francaise, cf. Defour et al. 2010, 170) Other synonyms offered by Grand Robert are a l'heure actuelle, aujourd'hui, maintenant (Ibid). Defour et al. use the following (ex. 14) to illustrate the meaning of actuellement by contrasting the past situation with the current state.

- (14) C'est l'image de cet homme, d'ailleurs, qui a automatiquement surgi du passé, tournoyante, quand on m'a demandé de participer au débat qui a lieu actuellement aux Etats-Unis sur l'utilité — vous avez bien lu — de la torture. (LM 2006)

“It is in fact the very image of this man that automatically emerged from the past, when I was asked to participate in the debate which is actuellement taking place in the United States on the usefulness — indeed — of torture.” (Ibid)

³My translation: dans les circonstances actuelles – under the current circumstances

2.2.3 Functions of actuellement

While the English actually is a multifunctional word, French actuellement only occurs as a temporal adverbial. Its role in the sentence is to refer to the current moment of the situation, which can be only interpreted in the context of the act of communication. The meaning of actuellement changes according to the perspective of the speaker. On the basis of this quality, we can place actuellement among the deixis of time (Benveniste, 1970).

2.3 Diachronic development of actually and actuellement

2.3.1 Diachronic development of actually and actuellement in the 13th–16th century

Even though the present-day actually does not correspond to the translation equivalent of actuellement, Defour et al. assert that the etymology of both words could be traced to the same origins. We can search for the basis for the French adverb actuellement in the Latin word actualis with a non-temporal meaning active, practical (cf. peccatum actuale/le péché actuel versus peccatum originale/le péché original – Trésor de la Langue Francaise, actuellement) (Clift, 2001; Traugott and Dasher, 2002). In the 14th century, the adverb actuellement derived from the adjective actuel first appearing in French in the 13th century. However, the word kept its original Latin non-temporal meaning (effectivement, réellement, en acte) as shown in (ex. 15) (Defour et al., 2000, 175).

- (15) La première chose de effimere est par choses extrinseqes et foraines eschauffans ou estoupans actuellement ou potentiallement les porres sicomme est chaleur de soleil. (DMF, Gordon, Prat., c.1450–1500, I, 2)

The first characteristic of ephemeral/one-day fever consists in external phenomena inflaming or obstructing the pores actuellement or virtually, as by the heat of the sun. (Ibid)

The adverb actually was incorporated into English through the adjective actual borrowed from the French equivalent actuel in the 14th century. The English adverb then adopts the meaning and usage of its French counterpart (actively, effectively) in the following century (Traugott and Dasher, 2002: 169; Powell, 1992). Both adverbs serve to convey a non-temporal meaning of emphasizing the “fact, truth or (empirical) reality”. There are several pros of this hypothesis. Firstly, both actually and actuellement tend to co-occur in collocations with other truth-related adverbs such as really in English and visiblement and véritablement in French as seen in (ex. 16) (Defour et al., 2010, 177).

- (16) Je respon que si on considere ce que j'ay dit, et qui est tres-vray, assavoir que les Ameriquains sont extremement visiblement et actuellement tourmentez des malins esprits... (DMF, Lery Jean de, Histoire d'un voyage en terre de Brésil : 1578)

I answer that if one considers what I have said, which is very true, namely that the Americans are extremely tormented, visibly and actuellement, by malicious spirits... (Ibid)

Alternatively, actuellement can be contrasted with another adverb expressing an opposite meaning to the factual truth, such as potentiallement and virtuellement (potentially). The (ex. 17) represents the only occurrence of actuellement before 1500 and demonstrates the usage of the adverb which asserts the factuality in opposition with potentiality.

- (17) La première chose de effimere est par choses extrinseques et foraines eschauffans ou estoupans actuellement ou potentiallement les porres sicomme est chaleur de soleil. (DMF, Gordon, Prat., c.1450–1500, I, 2)

“The first characteristic of ephemeral/one-day fever consists in external phenomena inflaming or obstructing the pores actuellement or virtually, as by the heat of the sun. (Defour et al., 2010, 178)

Secondly, Defour argues that actuellement, as well as actually, both still in their non-temporal meaning, co-occur with the verbs of existence (mainly be, have) and activity verbs (such as do, make). This correlates with their semantic meaning as they function in order to attest the truth-value or factuality of an empirical reality and realized acts. Finally, the adverbs appear in argumentative discourse in order to prove the truth-value of the statement as in (ex. 18).

- (18) And therefore in answer to it, I desire these following particulars may be considered. First, that this which they say, rather proves what God should have done according to their fancy, than what he hath really and actually done. (Defour et al. 2010, 182)

This usage of the adverb appears before 1700 and forms “a stepping stone towards the development of later epistemic-evidential properties of actually” (Defour et al. 2010, 181).

2.3.2 Divergence of actually and actuellement in the 17th and 18th century

The 17th century seems to be a key period in the development of new meanings of the two adverbs, the temporal meaning of actuellement in addition to the non-temporal one and also of the epistemic-evidential value of actually. It is clear that for a certain period of time both meanings coexisted and considering the “semantic proximity of factuality and present time” (Defour et al. 2010, 182) the interpretation of the meaning can sometimes be ambiguous. It is in the 18th century that the temporal meaning of actuellement becomes the predominant one. Having analyzed 500 occurrences of the French adverb from the period 1700-1800 Defour et al. observed that 411 examples had temporal meaning. The study for the 19th century demonstrates this trend even more distinctly as only 7 out of 500 occurrences had non-temporal value (Defour et al. 2010, 182).

Concerning the English word actually there is no evidence that the adverb developed temporal meaning in the 17th century in the same way actuellement did. Nonetheless Traugott and Dasher (2002) mention (ex. 19), in which the usage of actually could, in fact, convey this meaning.

- (19) it should have been to serve him, I know it is his due, and I owed all I had in the World to him: But tho' I could not fight for him my self, my Son did; he was actually in Arms on the King's side in this Business; I instructed him always in Loyalty, and sent him thither; it was I that bred him up to fight for the King. (HC, Statutes (VII): 1640–1710) (Traugott and Dasher 2010, 169)

Furthermore, the OED presents an example (ex. 20) of actually from the early 19th century where the adverb seems to have an obvious temporal meaning.

- (20) ladies wore gigots and large combs like tortoise-shell shovels in their hair, instead of the simple sleeves and lovely wreaths which are actually in fashion, the manners of the very polite world were not, I take it, essentially different from those of the present day: and their amusements pretty similar. (Clmetev2: Thackery, W.M., Vanity Fair : 1847–48) (Defour et al. 2010, 183)

Traugott and Dasher explain the possibility of temporal usage of actually as a result of connection between the two languages, considering that French actuel could have an influence on the non-temporal English adverb.

Unlike the French adverb, the English actually developed evidential and epistemic meanings. Actually no longer functions only as a reference to the “source of knowledge but also to degrees of certainty and to the extent to which the speaker’s utterance matches expectations” (Defour et al. 2010, 184). The adverb evolves into an evidential marker and helps the speakers express their stance to the expectations of the interlocutor. The English actually undergoes this shift towards a more subjective meaning in the 18th century. (Ibid) In the following (ex. 21) actually is used in order to contrast what the speaker considers to be reality with what appears to be only imagined.

- (21) Lucy: But Love, Sir, is a Misfortune that may happen to the most discreet Women, and in Love we are all Fools alike. Notwithstanding all he swore, I am now fully convinc’d that Polly Peachum is actually his Wife. Did I let him escape, (Fool that I was!) to go to her? (Clmetev1, John Gay, The beggar’s opera : 1728) (Defour et al. 2010, 184)

Actually here helps to accentuate the reality of the proposition “Polly Peachum is his Wife” which seems to be conflicting with the preceding statement “Notwithstanding all he swore”, on the basis of which the speaker formed her expectations. (Defour et al. 2010, 184).

2.4 Synchronic correspondences

Despite their common etymological origin, the English word actually and the French actuellement demonstrate no similarities between their present-day semantic meanings. OED mentions overall four examples of a temporal use of actually among them “the party actually in power” (Defour et al. 2010, 171), where the adverb seems to have a temporal value. Following this finding Defour et al. carried out a research based on a random sample of 250 examples taken from the British National Corpus and concluded that none of the occurrences conveyed a temporal meaning. Subsequently, Defour et al. performed a small-scale inquiry, asking the native speakers on their viewpoint on the temporal usage of actually. The conclusions showed that speakers regarded the temporal sense of actually as archaic (Defour et al. 2010, 172).

Correspondingly, Defour et al. carried out a research on the translation equivalents between the two adverbs (as shown in Table 1 and 2) and confirmed the hypothesis of the lack of correspondences between the two words based on their diachronic development. They analyzed data from the Namur Corpus included debates, fiction and extracts from published articles, and identified 148 occurrences of actually and 94 occurrences of the French actuellement. The occurrences in the table are arranged according to their source in the analyzed sample. The label zero in the results represents the cases where the adverb is left untranslated, such as in (ex. 22).

- (22) I am sorry it has not happened yet but I cannot give you the details in advance of the Commission actually approving it. (Namur Corpus, DWER:017:001. Debates. Source language: English)

Je suis désolé que cela n'ait pas eu lieu plus tôt, mais je ne peux vous donner d'avance les détails de l'approbation de la Commission.
(Defour et al. 2010, 172)

The category other regroups the examples which were translated by some other parts of speech such as an adjective (contemporary, existing etc.) or a different grammatical category, for instance progressive form of the verb such as in (ex. 23).

- (23) [J]e souhaiterais, ce soir, savoir quel est le statut de la proposition de la Commission portant sur le rail, la route et les voies de navigation intérieure que la commission des transports et du tourisme examine actuellement. (Namur Corpus, DBFP :019 :001. Debates. Source language : English)

“My concern this evening is to know what the status is of the original Commission proposal on rail, road and inland waterways which the Committee on Transport and Tourism is looking at. (Defour et al. 2010, 173)

Based on these results Defour et al. conclude that there is no evidence of the two adverbs being equivalents as the English actually mainly corresponds to the words associated with the semantic domain of factuality (such as en fait, effectivement), the truth (vraiment, véritablement) and reality (en réalité, réellement).

Conversely, the French actuellement is translated by the words conveying temporal meaning (eg. currently, at the moment, now, at present).

Table 2.1: Most frequently occurring correspondences of actually (Namur Corpus): raw figures on a total of 148 occurrences (Defour et al. 2010, 173).

Translation equivalent of actually	actually as a source form	actually as translation	Source unknown	Total
En fait	12	15	2	29
zéro	11	17	4	32
vraiment	7	4	1	12
en réalité	5	3	2	10
effectivement	6	2	1	9
lui-/moi-/nous-)même(s)	3	4	1	8
réellement	6	0	0	6
(bel et) bien	0	3	1	4
véritablement	2	1	0	3
donc	0	1	1	2
au contraire; certes; en effet; en vérité; évidemment; exactement; pourtant;...	3	17	2	22
Invalid: fragment missing	3	6	2	11
	58	73	17	148

Table 2.2: Most frequently occurring correspondences of actuellement (Namur Corpus): raw figures on a total of 94 occurrences (Defour et al. 2010, 174).

Translation equivalent of actuellement	actuellement as source form	actuellement as translation	Source unknown	Total
currently	8	11	1	20
at the moment	1	14	0	15
now	1	9	3	13
other	6	7	7	20
zero	3	2	3	8
at present –	2	6	1	9
at the present time
presently	0	3	0	3
today	2	0	2	4
for the time being	0	1	0	1
previously	0	1	0	1
	23	54	17	94

Chapter 3

MATERIALS AND METHODS

3.1 Materials

The present analysis is a corpus based study of the English actually and the French actuellement. Firstly, the examples are extracted from monolingual corpora. For the English adverb, examples were selected from the British National Corpus and for the French adverb from the Lextutor-Parlé. As the research was performed on the discourse functions of the two adverbs, synchronic spoken corpora were consulted. The BNC comprises 100 million words of written (90%) and spoken (10%) language from a variety of sources. The spoken demographic subcorpus consists of transcriptions of informal conversations recorded on various occasions. The subcorpus Lextutor-Parlé contains 150 000 words composed from 95 interviews of various lengths, recorded between 1980 and 1990. The first section of analysis is concerned with 50 examples of randomly selected actually from the BNC and all the (33) examples of actuellement from the Lextutor-Parlé.

Secondly, for determining the translation equivalents of the two adverbs all the examples in the fiction core of the parallel corpus InterCorp were selected for analysis (12 occurrences of actuellement and 32 occurrences of actually). The parallel corpus InterCorp comprises 1390 million words. The analysed sample of the fiction core contains the books Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring, Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone, Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, The War of the Worlds; The Time Machine and The Jungle Book for English and The order of things: an archeology of the human sciences and Le tour du monde en quatre-vingt-jours for French.

Furthermore in order to delineate translation equivalents of actually and actuellement in the spoken language, all (57) examples of the French adverb and random sample of 50 examples of the English adverb were extracted from the Europarl subcorpus of the parallel corpus InterCorp. The French-English parallel corpus Europarl contains over 50 million words. The French occurrences of translation equivalents of actuellement were extracted from the French source language section. The Europarl does not however contain an English source language section. Therefore, in order to analyse the sample of 50 occurrences of English actually from the Europarl, we presupposed that the unmarked source language section of the corpus represents the English originals. As the English language is missing from the list of languages and it seems to be the only European language, which is not included, we intend to treat the randomly selected sample of adverbs as if English was the source language. The 50 examples were randomized and selected from 1206 found occurrences.

3.2 Method

3.2.1 Analysis

The present analysis is divided into three sections. In the first part 50 examples of actually were excerpted from the BNC as well as all the 33 found examples actuellement from the Lextutor-Parlé. The position in the sentence and the lexical meaning of the surrounding co-text were considered in order to determine the syntactic function of actually. Furthermore, once the occurrences of actually with adverbial usage were distinguished from those of discourse markers, the discourse functions were determined in each of the markers. Similarly, all the examples of actuellement were considered based on their position, surrounding co-text and most frequent collocations.

The next two sections of the analytical part are concerned with identifying the translation equivalents for both adverbs. All the examples of actually (32) and actuellement (12) were selected for the analysis from the fiction core of the parallel corpus InterCorp in the second part of the chapter. In both cases the accuracy of the translations was considered. Finally, the third section of the analytical chapter focuses on determining the translation equivalents of the adverbs sample selected from the spoken parallel corpus. All the 57 found examples of actuellement and a sample of 50 random examples of actually were selected from the Europarl subcorpus of the parallel corpus InterCorp. The analysis of the occurrences was based on two main criteria. The first criterion consisted of whether the original adverb was in fact translated and the second criterion whether the present translation corresponds to the semantic meaning of the original actually or actuellement. To conclude the analytical chapter a research concerning the faux-amis relation between actually and actuellement was performed. A range of 22 occurrences of English sentences with actually translated as actuellement was found when the French adverb was chosen as the translation counterpart. Nonetheless, 11 of these examples corresponded to another temporal meaning in the sentence and thus were excluded from the analysis.

All the searched examples in the corpora were randomized in order to comprise as many different types of texts as possible.

3.2.2 Excluded excerpts

Upon selecting a random sample of occurrences, two results had to be excluded from the analysis. The first excerpt was excluded from the analysis of translation equivalents of actuellement performed on the sample of 58 search results in the InterCorp v7 – Europarl FR. One of the occurrences was repeated two times in the corpus; hence it is not included in the raw figures of this sample.

The other excluded example was in the last section of the analysis of translation equivalents of actually carried out on the sample of 50 search results in the InterCorp v7 – Europarl EN as the English original did not correspond to the French translation due to an alignment error.

Chapter 4

ANALYSIS

4.1 Analysis of actually

4.1.1 Syntactical functions of actually

Upon selecting a random sample of 50 occurrences from the spoken demographic subcorpus of the BNC, the figures have shown that the English word actually was used as a subjunct or a content disjunct in 19 cases and as a discourse marker in 31 cases. The criterion considered for distinguishing adverbial usage from one of a discourse marker, was the position of actually in the utterance. As Aijmer (2000, 256) remarks the prosodic properties should be equally considered, the corpus nonetheless does not provide us with this information. Due to these reasons, one of the occurrences (ex. 1) could be evaluated as both content disjunct or discourse marker, as despite its sentence-final position, the adverb seems to provide a comment on the truth value of the whole utterance.

- (1) Margaret You see how they <pause> <unclear> the cucumbers over there.
Terence No. Have half a dozen of those floating around in the garden.
Margaret Sorry?
Terence Say, have a dozen of those floating around the garden.
Margaret Yeah, they're nice actually!
Terence Well yeah I su-- I suppose there must be!

4.1.2 Adverbial usage of actually

The position of actually as a subjunct was medial in 18 cases confirming its adverbial function as defined by Quirk et al., (1985, 493) and in one aforementioned case – final. The subjunct thus predominantly appeared in a pre-verbal position (ex. 2) or between the auxiliary or modal verb and a full lexical verb as in (ex. 3).

Figure 4.1: Syntactic functions of actually (demographic subcorpus, BNC)

- (2) It's a question of boundaries between different groups. Erm quite commonly, gypsies have been defined by Geourgos, it says, by the predominant er you know, house-growing population. Erm how far that actually is accurate er, designation of them as a a group, is, is debatable.

- (3) Dad on er <pause> Open University about er <pause> er these er drugs designed to <pause> you know <pause> er well
 Sue Yeah.
 Dad a lot of them were <pause> too complicated for me to explain to you but I mean I appreciated the <pause> the miracle of it all, like they could actually <pause> take the thing to <-|-> pieces <-|->
 Sue Yeah.
 Dad to that extent, you know.

We can identify the semantic role of actually in (ex. 2) and (ex. 3) as one of an emphasizer, which has a reinforcing effect on the truth-value of the statement (Quirk et al. 1985, 583). In (ex. 2) the emphasizer affects the whole utterance, while in (ex. 3) actually applies only to the idea of things being taken to pieces.

4.1.3 Collocations of adverbial use of actually

The adverb has a tendency to co-occur with certain expression. Firstly, actually appeared twice in a collocation with modal verb enabling to further accentuate the intrinsic modality of the phrase (ex. 4).

- (4) James But er, ah, you know, it gets up into the garden but I don't think it, it's got anywhere near the house er this time, cos I was up there <pause> on Thursday and I, you could see where it had been, but it was <pause> and I mi-- I'd have got very worried about er
 Bill But you could actually put a bag all the way and tie it into <pause> tie it into er <pause> the <pause> it's the Skillery Bridge that one.

Secondly, in two cases the subjunct was preceded by emphatic do (ex. 5) stressing the insistence on the truth-value of the statement.

- (5) None <unclear> oh well, I support this charity <unclear>
 Rebecca Cos they do actually er deserve all the money they get.

Finally, the sample of 50 occurrences contained four examples of the adverb following either verbal (ex. 6) or non-verbal (ex. 7) negation. Never is emphatic and thus correlates with the function of the discourse marker.

- (6) Sandra they're not actually printing, as soon as they can form the words, they join them
 None well I was, I was get--, I was just about to mention that Sandra I didn't like that
 (7) Wendy I haven't been to Heathrow as much as I'd been to Gatwick Sandra I've never actually flown from Heathrow, I've been

4.1.4 Actually as a discourse particle

Over 60 % (31 occurrences) of the analysed sample of 50 occurrences proves to have the function of a discourse marker. In accordance with Schiffrin (1987) the adverb in such a semantic role can appear either utterance-initially (9 occurrences) (ex. 8), clause-finally (6 occurrences) (ex. 9) or utterance-finally (15 occurrences) (ex. 10). Additionally, the position of actually in (ex. 11) might be identified as one of a post-head position (ex. 11) as the adverb enables the speaker to draw attention to the utterance by rephrasing the original idea, while it forces the interlocutor to reprocess the words of the speaker as the utterance is briefly interrupted.

- (8) Peter Actually it depends when you said it.
 When did you say it?
 Ah?
Muhammad Probably said it while I was like, yeah, we--, you know, while you were at the
- (9) Father I've had a whole series of catastrophes
Catriona No you haven't.
 Name one.
Father so
Catriona Er don't name one actually, I don't wanna hear.
Father No.
- (10) Rachel Is he old?
Unknown speaker <unclear>
Jill quite good looking actually.
Unknown speaker <unclear>
Jill In his
Rachel <unclear>
Jill erm late thirties.
- (11) Gill Most people don't actually <pause> go into things as deeply as we do. We've er oh it's, it's all to do with this sort of special thing that we found.
Jemma It is, it is true though.
Gill Definitely.
 I don't, I don't know anybody <pause> that I, I've <pause> I mean I've never seen a group, I mean you see it on films every <voice quality: laughing> now and then you know<end of voice quality>, a group of people that really, really spark one another off, like in The Big Chill and all the things like that <pause> but erm <pause> I've never seen it before.
 Not, not to the extent of what we've got.
 <pause> Not as permanent.
Jemma My brother actually, Michael has been very good <pause> he still sees erm <pause> <unclear> cos he's always friends with <unclear> <pause> and they're really good friends.

4.1.5 Discursive functions of actually

Utterance-initial actually appeared nine times in the sample of 50 occurrences found in the corpus. Upon analysing the functions of these markers, we can distinguish their two main discursive functions. Firstly, 3 occurrences were employed as an emphatic particle in order to add further often surprising information or elaborate on the previous utterance. Moreover, in two cases the adverb appeared in collocation with the conjunction and which confirms the existence of cohesive as well as additive functions of the marker. In (ex. 12) the interlocutor adds a relevant surprising piece of information to the previous utterance.

- (12) Norman Oh well I'll, I'll look, I'll ring I didn't actually ring
 Raymond I'll find out anyway
 Norman them up and ask them
 Raymond and actually you know this Time Chemicals, they, they deliver you know, they come here with the stuff.
 Norman Do they?

The remaining 6 occurrences of actually in utterance-initial position could be identified as contrastive markers, as the speaker employs the adverb in order to signal the reversal of his attitude towards the preceding statement. Furthermore this discourse function is reinforced by the collocation of actually with the conjunction but in (ex. 13) as well as co-occurrence with negation (ex. 14). In (ex. 13) the speaker expresses disagreement with the preceding statement of kitchen being the focus of the discussion and indicates that the concerned room was in fact a bathroom. (Ex. 14) represents the use of actually as a contrast marker, when the speaker recollects relevant information and suddenly reconsiders his/her response.

- (13) Margaret I didn't have any, oh no, I didn't have in the bathroom at all cos
 None But the other of mine had Margaret Mm.
 None U P V C ones <pause> and erm <pause> but you see, in the kitchen they don't go with Margaret Yeah.
 None you see.
 Er <pause> but erm <pause> actually, I I, in erm <pause> erm <pause> sorry, er, but of course that was a bathroom, but we didn't have a blind up.

- (14) Matt D'you know anybody else that's got a jig?
 Christopher No.
Actually I do.
 There's a bloke erm <pause> Sharon's dad bought erm
 <pause> my brother-in-law's Citroen off him.

The discourse marker actually occurred in 70% of the cases in the final position, nonetheless only 7 occurrences appeared clause-finally. Common feature of clause-final results was the lack of semantic meaning of the adverb, as the function seemed to be predominantly interpersonal. Actually is frequently employed as a softener of the preceding statement having an almost appeasing effect on the whole utterance. In (ex. 15) the speaker asks the interlocutor to provide some information, suddenly however changes her mind and reverses the order; in order to soften the command the utterer employs actually.

- (15) Father I've had a whole series of catastrophes
 Catriona No you haven't.
 Name one.
 Father so
 Catriona Er don't name one actually, I don't wanna hear.

In (ex. 16) the discourse marker functions as a softener as it seems to express an almost apologetic characteristic of the utterance, when the speaker admits he/she cannot recall the past events.

- (16) June Yeah well I put it upstairs.
 Jonathan Whereabouts?
 June In your bedroom.
 Jonathan Oh <pause> I never see it!
 <pause> What near the computer?
 June I don't know where I put it actually, but it is in there.

Similarly to the clause-final actually, utterance-final position of the adverb transmits very limited lexical meaning. The discourse marker primarily bears a social function, mediating interaction between the speaker and the interlocutor. In (ex. 17) the speaker invites the interlocutor to retrieve a key, and she responds with a wishful comment.

- (17) Catherine Mhm.
 And er <pause> you'd better get that key actually.
 Catherine Oh.
 I hope it's in the other room hopefully.

Additionally, utterance-final position of the discourse marker might provide a self-corrective element to the statement as in (ex. 18), where the speaker mentions having brought certain object and subsequently remarks that he/she might have in fact left it in another room.

- (18) Catherine Dunno what I just done with the key actually.
 Tt!
 Boy!
 That's bad.
 Catherine Not to worry.
 Not to worry.
 Erm <pause> what we can do is er <pause> use something here.
 I bought this lot down with me.
 Catherine It might be in the other room actually.

Figure 4.2: Position of a discourse marker actually (demographic subcorpus, BNC)

4.2 Analysis of actuellement

4.2.1 The position of actuellement

The monolingual corpus of spoken French, Lextutor-Parlé, contains 33 occurrences of the adverbial actuellement. In comparison with the English adverb actually the meaning of the French actuellement does not change according to its position in the utterance. In contrast with the Defour et al.'s (2010, 186) statement that actuellement appears most frequently in the final position, only 4 occurrences found in the corpus appeared in the utterance-final position. (ex. 19).

- (19) Les grosses fortunes anglaises, par exemple je sais pas en Angleterre ils paient des impôts en Angleterre, mais ils payaient pas d'impôts euh proportionnellement à ce qu'on impose actuellement.

[The great English fortunes, for example in England I do not know they pay taxes in England, but they do not pay taxes proportionally to what is currently required.]¹

Approximately half of the occurrences (48%) were integrated in the sentence structure and appeared in the post-verbal position (ex. 20).

- (20) On on.. le problème, c'était le chômage à à la sortie des études ou bien là le choix entre l'enseignement public ou privé des collèges ou des lycées mais qui est actuellement en France dans une situation catastrophique c'est vraiment pas très drôle d'enseigner dans un collège euh c'est pas du tout motivant.

[It it... the problem was the unemployment at the end of the studies or better once there was a choice between public or private middle schools or secondary schools, but what is currently in France in a catastrophic state which is not funny is to teach at a middle school er this is not at all motivating.]

Furthermore, 11 occurrences (33%) appeared in an utterance-initial position (ex. 21).

¹In Section 4.2 my own literal translations of the sentences are given in square brackets after the examples.

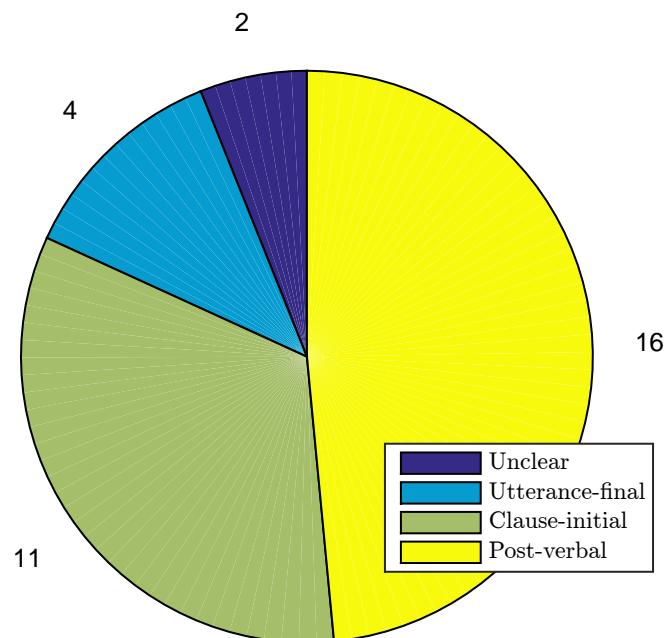

- (21) – Oui. Usure du pouvoir.
 – Voilà.
 – Alors là oui, ts, cela dit, actuellement l'opposition en France n'a pas un projet suffisamment clair et défini pour représenter une menace vraiment dangereuse euh au pouvoir.
- [– Yes. Wearing of the power.
 – There.
 – Then yes, there, ts, that being said, the opposition in France does not currently have a sufficiently clear and defined project to represent very dangerous threat to those in power.]

Finally the 2 remaining occurrences did not appear in a clear position, as they were integrated in an incomplete sentence structure (ex. 22).

- (22) Pendant les vacances [??] Euh, ce qui nous tracasse plutôt, où on est vraiment choqués, c'est les agressions, les choses comme ça actuellement euh, vraiment euh. Ça devient lamentable, quoi.

[During the holidays [??] Er, what worries us the most, what really shocks us , are the assaults, the things like that currently er, really er. This becomes lamentable, what.]

Figure 4.3: Position of the adverbial actuellement (Parlé 150 000, Lextutor)

4.2.2 The lexical meaning of actuellement

According to GMDF (1994, 652) the French actuellement functions as an adverbial of time commenting purely on the temporal frame of the utterance. In 10 of the 33 occurrences actuellement was employed to emphasize the difference between the past events and the current state of the affairs as in (ex. 23).

- (23) Ça fait une quinzaine d'années que je pratique l'accordéon, oui, et alors, bon j'aime ça et je trouve que c'est un instrument qui est très complet... plaît quand même au public. Oui et on écoute actuellement un jeune qui commence...

[It has been fifteen years that I practiced accordion, yes, and then, well I like it and I find that it is an instrument which is very comprehensible.. still is enjoyed by public. Yes and now we listen to a young one who begins...]

In (ex. 23) the speaker recalls a situation, which has not occurred for fifteen years (Ça fait une quinzaine d'années), since the time when he used to play the musical instrument and he compares it with the present moment when he listens to the young ones starting to play the accordion.

Additionally actuellement co-occurs with various other expressions of time (toujours – always, maintenant – now, à cette époque-là – at that period etc.) and is either used as a synonym when the speaker rephrases his/her idea (ex. 24) or comments on how the present state is different from the standard situation (ex. 25).

- (24) – Mais non, pour l'instant, ça va.
 – Il y a une formation?
 – Oui, je suis en formation actuellement.
 – Mais on le fait en travaillant?
 – Voilà, sur le terrain.
 [– But no, for now, it is ok.
 – Is there training?
 – Yes, I am currently in training.
 – But are you in training while working?
 – Exactly, it is on-the-job training program.]

- (25) Ensuite j'ai été pendant cinq ans chez mes parents où vraiment c'était le cau, le cauchemar. J'ai été mis dans un, dans une maison de redres-sement, ce qu'on appelle actuellement une maison de correction.
J'ai vécu ans là-dedans j'ai été heureux comme tout.

[Then I spent five years at my parents where it really was a night, a nightmare. I was placed in a reformatory which we now call a house of correction. There I lived for years and was happy as hell.]

In (ex. 24) actuellement serves as a synonym for the expression pour l'instant (for now) and moreover brings the additional element of simultaneity of the two actions to the conversation. This seems to be surprising information for the first speaker as he learns that the training is taking place at the same time as the interlocutor is working.

The speaker in (ex. 25) employs the adverbial in order to clarify the situation, as he narrates the story of his life. He mentions that he has spent certain amount of time in a detention center; the common name for this institution, however, seems to have changed. As the speaker wishes to mediate the information to the hearer he comments upon the current name of this center.

The context in which the actuellement appears as well as the collocations that co-occur with the adverb seem to prove that the lexical meaning of the word is as determined by the GMDF as one of an adverbial of time. Nonetheless, in (ex. 26) where actuellement co-occurs with the conjunction mais (but) the adverb seems to express certain interpersonal functions.

- (26) – Enfin il y a un effort certain qui a été fait, hein ? Dans les bibliothèques.
– Mais actuellement, il y a vraiment des des je crois qu'il y a j'espère que les bibliothécaires vont bien faire leur travail [– Finally there has been a certain effort, huh? In the libraries.
– But currently, there are really the the I believe there is hope that librarians will do their job.]

The first speaker in (ex. 26) concludes his question by an interjection hein (huh) therefore he/she clearly expects an answer on the matter of libraries from the interlocutor. This seems to suggest that the actuellement in the following sentence, as it is placed utterance-initially and preceded by the conjunction mais has interpersonal functions in the sentence as it reacts to the previous sentence.

4.3 Translation equivalents – InterCorp (Core)

4.3.1 Translation equivalents of actually

The sample of 32 occurrences of the English actually and its French translation equivalents from the fiction core of the parallel corpus InterCorp support the meaning of actually as a content disjunct as defined by Quirk et al. (1985). With the exception of 6 occurrences in which the English adverb was omitted from the French translations as in (ex. 27), and (ex. 28) in which actually was translated by a temporal adverbial récemment all the other equivalents fall within the category of expressions commenting on the truth-value of the utterance.

- (27) Then he actually rose from his seat and bowed.

Puis il se leva pour s'incliner.

- (28) A bald man in a very long purple coat had actually shaken his hand in the street the other day and then walked away without a word.

Récemment encore, un homme chauve dans un long manteau pourpre lui avait serré la main dans la rue, puis était reparti sans dire un mot.

In (ex. 28) we seem to encounter a shift in translation as the English actually is translated by a French adverbial of time récemment (recently). This occurrence confirms the faux-amis relationship between content disjunct actually and temporal adverbial actuellement. Additionally, considering the historical development of the lexical meaning of both adverbs it is surprising that the English subjunct would be translated by an adverbial of time as the tendency has been reversed – French actuellement shared the same meaning as actually before it developed its present-day meaning.

41% of all the actually occurrences were translated by various French adverbs (précisement, effectivement, vraiment, réellement, and positivement) (ex. 29).

- (29) Was the Grim going to haunt him until he actually died?

Le Sinistros allait-il continuer de le narguer jusqu'à ce qu'il meure vraiment ?

Only one English adverbial was translated by an idiomatic adjectival expression (bel et bien), which is employed as an intensifier of the action in (ex. 30).

- (30) but when the Rabbit actually took a watch out of its waistcoat-pocket, and looked at it, and then hurried on.

cependant, lorsque le Lapin tira bel et bien une montre de la poche de son gilet, regarda l'heure, et se mit à courir de plus belle.

The rest of the correspondences represent expressions formed by a prepositional phrase, comprising a preposition and noun (en réalité, en vérité, pour de bon and en/de fait) as shown in (ex. 31). These terms correspond to English synonyms of actually, such as in reality or in fact.

- (31) Actually Gandalf was awake, though lying still and silent.

En fait, celui-ci était éveillé, quoiqu'il restât étendu immobile et silencieux.

Table 4.1: Translation equivalents of actually, (InterCorp v7 – Core, English sources)

Translation equivalent of actually
	précisement	1
	bel et bien	1
	effectivement	1
	de fait	1
	en réalité	1
overt counterparts	pour de bon	2
	vraiment	3
	en vérité	3
	réellement	3
	en fait	4
	positivement	5
shift in translation	récemment	1
		6
Total	32	32

The analysed sample of the translation equivalents of English actually confirms that the term is a content disjunct whose function is to comment on the truth-value of a statement/utterance.

4.3.2 Translation equivalents of actuellement

There are 12 occurrences of actuellement in the French original texts in the Core subcorpus of French InterCorp v7. Firstly, actuellement, defined by Riegel et al.

(1994, 652) as an adverbial of time, is translated either by an English prepositional phrase at present (ex. 32) or by now referring to the current situation.

- (32) C'est-à-dire que pour le spectateur qui actuellement le regarde, il est à droite de son tableau qui, lui, occupe toute l'extrême gauche.

That is, for the spectator at present observing him he is to the right of his canvas, while the latter, the canvas, takes up the whole of the extreme left.

In contrast with the definition, five of the French adverbials seem to convey an uncommon meaning of actuellement. The adverb (ex. 33) appears to express the same lexical meaning as its English counterpart actually, commenting on the truth-value of the statement. It therefore functions as a content disjunct. The English equivalent actually is thus appropriately employed here.

- (33) le signifiant et le signifié ne sont liés que dans la mesure où l'un et l'autre sont (ou ont été ou peuvent être) représentés, et où l'un représente actuellement l'autre.

the signifying element and the signified element are linked only in so far as they are (or have been or can be) represented, and in so far as the one actually represents the other.

Additionally, 2 occurrences of actuellement have zero English translation equivalents (ex. 34).

- (34) race à laquelle appartiennent actuellement les riches négociants indigènes de Bombay among whom are counted the richest native merchants of Bombay were celebrating a sort of religious carnival

In the two remaining occurrences, the French adverb actuellement is substituted by the present continuous tense. The tense in these utterances (ex. 35) performs the same function as the French adverbial of time as it marks that the events are currently in progress.

- (35) Le peintre fixe actuellement un lieu qui d'instant en instant ne cesse de changer de contenu, de forme, de visage, d'identité.

The painter is observing a place which, from moment to moment, never ceases to change its content, its form, its face, its identity.

Table 4.2: Translation equivalents of actuellement, (InterCorp v7 – Core, French sources)

Translation equivalent of actuellement
	actually	5
Over counterparts	at present	2
	now	1
Translation by a grammatical tense	present continuous	2
Zero counterparts		2
Total		12

4.4 Translation equivalents – InterCorp (Europarl)

4.4.1 Translation equivalents of actuellement (Europarl)

In addition to the sample of 12 occurrences from the French Core part; InterCorp incorporates a parallel corpus Europarl FR that contains 57 additional occurrences of actuellement as a source form. The spectrum of translation equivalents corresponds to the one of the French Core subcorpus, only the range of English correspondences is broader. Besides now and at present, at the moment and at this (point in) time appear recurrently in the searched occurrences. The most frequent correspondence is currently, which represents 53% of all correspondences, as in (ex. 36).

- (36) Je vous signale que certains de nos collègues sont actuellement en Sierra Leone pour y suivre les elections.

I should point out that some of our colleagues are currently in Sierra Leone to monitor the elections there.

An alternative to the adverbial form is the adjective current modifying the following noun as in (ex. 37).

- (37) Actuellement, les procédures d'homologation nationale du matériel roulant s'avèrent trop longues et trop coûteuses.

The current procedures for national approvals of rolling stock are too long and costly.

In (ex. 38) we observe the translation of the French adverb by a copular predication comprising the verb be and an idiomatic expression in progress with the meaning of actually, which functions as the subject complement. Additionally, the lexical meaning of the copular predication places further emphasis on the progress of the action.

- (38) Il existe, actuellement, pas moins de cinq directives relatives à l'égalité des chances et à la non-discrimination dans l'Union européenne.

Twenty-eight actions for infringement are in progress against Member States that have not transposed them.

Unlike in the (ex. 38), where the translation is made through the lexical means, (ex. 39) represents an occurrence of actuellement translated through the means of grammatical tense. In this case the adverb is rendered into English through the present perfect tense, which emphasizes the result of the action at the present moment.

- (39) Actuellement, les grandes banques centrales ont dû recommencer à injecter des milliards dans les circuits financiers pour "faire face aux pressions sur les liquidités", comme on dit pudiquement dans la haute finance.

The leading central banks have again been forced to inject billions into the financial circuits in order to 'deal with the pressure on liquid assets' as one says discreetly in the world of high finance.

Finally in (ex. 40) there is a complete omission of the adverbial of time in the English translation of the utterance.

- (40) En termes de jours de consommation, vous savez que les stocks de céréales dont dispose actuellement l'Europe à vingt-sept ont été divisés par deux depuis 2005, et en cas de crise, ils seraient épuisés en un mois.

In terms of the number of days of consumption, the EU's cereal reserve has halved since 2005, and in a crisis would only last a month.

Regardless the 5 occurrences of correspondences between actually – actuellement present in the Core French subcorpus, French actuellement proves to be most frequently translated into English as currently or by English adverbials of time such as now or at present.

²There are in fact 58 search results of actuellement in the InterCorp v7 – Europarl FR nonetheless one of the occurrences is repeated two times; hence it is not included in the raw figures of this sample.

Table 4.3: Translation equivalents of actuellement (InterCorp v7 – Europarl, French sources)

Translation equivalent of actuellement
	currently	30
	now	6
	At the moment	6
	At present	4
overt counterparts	current	3
	At this time	1
	At this point in time	1
	At the most recent count	1
	Are in progress	1
Translation by a grammatical tense	Present perfect tense	1
zero counterparts		3
Total		57²

4.4.2 Translation equivalents of actually (Europarl)

The last analysis of the translation equivalents was performed on 50 random examples extracted from the parallel corpus Europarl³. The most frequent equivalent of the English adverb was a zero counterpart translation (ex. 41) as in approximately 45% cases of the occurrences the content adverbial was omitted from the translation.

- (41) The closing date for making our submission has actually passed by a few days.

Le délai pour le dépôt de nos propositions a expiré il y a quelques jours.

Thirteen occurrences were translated by a prepositional phrase en fait (10 occurrences) (ex. 42) and en réalité (3 occurrences) (ex. 43).

- (42) But we have to face reality that the inflation rate has actually increased from 1.9 % in August last year to 3.6 % in April 2008.

Mais il faut regarder la réalité en face, à savoir que le taux d' inflation est en fait passé de 1,9 % en août de l' année passée à 3,6 % en avril 2008.

³For the detailed description of the corpus selected for this section, please see the chapter 3.1. Materials.

- (43) On the contrary, it has actually been kept active, even over the past few weeks.

Au contraire, il a en réalité été maintenu actif, même au cours de ces dernières semaines.

In 20% of cases the English actually has been translated by several French adverbs commenting on the truth-value of the statement (réellement, vraiment, effectivement and exactement) (ex. 44).

- (44) It is essential that the day-to-day business of insurance and reinsurance companies is actually watched, managed and monitored by regulators over a period of time.

Il est essentiel que les activités quotidiennes des entreprises d'assurance et de réassurance soient réellement observées, gérées et contrôlées par des régulateurs sur une période de temps.

Furthermore, the English actually in (ex. 45) is employed in the role of a discourse marker, therefore the employment of the French equivalent À vrai dire (Truth to be told), corresponds to Aijmer's definition of an emphatic marker which correlates with a phrase commenting upon the truth-value of the utterance (2000, 269).

- (45) Actually, I had some problems pronouncing it myself.

À vrai dire, j'ai eu moi aussi un peu de mal à prononcer ce mot.

The 2 remaining occurrences seem to suggest a translating malpractice as the English actually is translated in one case by the faux-amis counterpart actuellement (ex. 46) and in the second case by the French word encore (still) (ex. 47).

- (46) Mr Paolo De Castro asked on behalf of the Committee that we say what we are actually doing.

M. Paolo De Castro nous a demandé au nom de la commission, d'expliquer ce que nous faisons actuellement.

- (47) I suppose it gave my antibodies something to do in the days when we actually had antibodies.

J'imagine que mes anticorps ont eu de quoi s'occuper, à l'époque où nous avions encore des anticorps.

Table 4.4: Translation equivalents of actually (InterCorp v7 – Europarl, English sources)

Translation equivalent of actually
Overt counterparts	En fait	10
	Réellement	6
	En réalité	3
	Vraiment	2
	Effectivement	1
	exactement	1
	À vrai dire	1
Shift in the translation	Actuellement	1
	Encore	1
Zero counterparts		23
Total		49⁴

Finally, a query aimed specifically at English sentences with actually whose French translations contained the adverb actuellement revealed that the faux amis was chosen as the translation counterpart in 11 out of the 1206 occurrences of actually in the Europarl subcorpus. In all these instances the translations did not render the meaning of actually correctly in French misinterpreting it as a temporal adverbial.

⁴One of the occurrences was excluded from the analysis, as the English original did not correspond to the French translation.

Chapter 5

CONCLUSIONS

This bachelor thesis is concerned with two formally similar adverbs, the English actually and the French actuellement. The present analysis aimed to determine their semantic meaning and syntactical function through the examples extracted from synchronic monolingual corpora (BNC and Lextutor-Parlé) as well as from the parallel corpus InterCorp.

The analysis of actually in the spoken demographic corpus proved that in present-day English the adverb is used as a content subjunct or disjunct or as a discourse marker. The study showed that 38% of the occurrences were employed as content subjunct or disjunct while 62% of the examples adopted the role of a discourse marker. The adverbial actually assumed the semantic role of an emphaser in 95% of cases and in one case a role of a content disjunct commenting on the truth-value of the utterance. The subjunct had a tendency to occur in combination with modal verbs, which additionally accentuated the intrinsic modality of the statements. Emphatic do also co-occurred with the adverb further stressing the insistence on the truth-value of the utterance.

In 70% of cases the discourse marker actually appeared in the final position (15 occurrences utterance-finally and 7 occurrences clause-finally). In the 9 remaining examples actually occurred sentence-initially. In three cases the sentence-initial actually adopted the role of an emphatic particle elaborating on the previous discourse and adding surprising information. The additive as well as cohesive discursive functions were further supported by co-occurrence of the adverb with the conjunction and. The other six examples of actually in the sentence-initial position proved to have contrastive discourse functions as a statement contrasting with the preceding speech followed the adverb. Furthermore, the contrastive function was reinforced by the co-occurrence of actually with negation and the conjunction but. When in the final position actually mostly adopted interpersonal functions, as its lexical meaning seemed to be rather limited. Among the interpersonal functions the one of a softener appeared to be prominent, rendering an almost apologetic aspect of the preceding statement.

The analysis of the French adverb actuellement confirmed its semantic role of an adverbial of time as defined by Riegel et al. (1994, 652) with the meaning of at present time/now. In 48% of cases the adverb was integrated in the sentence structure, being placed medially, while 11 cases proved to appear sentence-initially and only 4 cases had utterance-final position. In this respect the results of the analysis differ from the theoretical part, as Defour et al. (2010) claim that actuellement most frequently appears sentence-finally. Besides the strictly temporal meaning, in the 30% of cases, actuellement rendering the meaning of at present time appeared in contrast with a different time frame usually expressed through the past tense. In this systematic usage for contrasting two opposing temporal frames actuellement seems to approximate the discourse functions expressed by the English actually. Furthermore as in the case of actually, actuellement co-occurred with the conjunction mais (but), which accentuated the contrastive function of the adverb. A parallel case of actuellement not rendering temporal meaning was discovered in the fiction core of the parallel corpus InterCorp. Actuellement in the original French text conveyed the meaning of a comment on the truth-value of the statement and was thus similar in meaning to the English actually. However, the analysed sample was too small to draw any conclusions from these results.

With that exception all the other examples in the fiction core as well as in the subcorpus Europarl were translated by temporal counterparts, for instance, the adverbials such as currently, now, at present etc. Two examples in the fiction core and one in the Europarl were translated through the grammatical means of a verbal tense. In the fiction core the present continuous served to emphasize the current progress of the action, while the translation in the Europarl subcorpus through the present perfect tense conveyed the meaning of a result of the action at the present moment.

The analysis of the translation equivalents of the English actually showed that a vast proportion of the examples remained untranslated (19% in the fiction core and 47% in the Europarl subcorpus). Most of the translation equivalents then proved to be exact translations of the synonyms of actually into French such as en fait, réellement, vraiment etc. further verifying the truth-value meaning of the adverb. Finally, the analysis confirmed the faux-amis relationship of the two adverbs as the fiction core contained one case and Europarl two cases of a translating malpractice. Additionally, a query aimed at English sentences with actually identified 11 out of 1206 examples of the English adverb translated by actuellement. This demonstrates that actually and actuellement are faux-amis, which may cause difficulties in translations.

RESUMÉ

Tématem této bakalářské práce je srovnání dvou adverbií, anglického actually a francouzského actuellement, která jsou formálně obdobná a mají společný etymologický základ, nicméně jejich lexikální význam se v dnešním jazyce liší. Anglické actually je multifunkční slovo vyskytující se jak v roli disjunktu nebo subjunktu (příslovečná určení nezačleněná do větné struktury) tak i v roli diskursivní částice. V kontrastu s anglickým adverbiem, se dnešní actuellement vyskytuje pouze jako příslovečné určení času. Pro porovnání adverbií byly využity synchronní jednojazyčné korpusy pro přesné vymezení významu obou adverbií a paralelní srovnávací korpusy pro určení překladových protějšků.

Práce je rozdělena do pěti kapitol. První částí je úvod, který popisuje téma práce a načrtne její strukturu a hlavní cíle. Následuje teoretická kapitola, která shrnuje dosavadní poznatky publikované na dané téma. Kapitola Materiály a metody se zabývá popisem využitých korpusů a postupem analýzy. Analytická část obsahuje strukturovaný rozbor příkladů získaných z korpusů. Práce je zakončena závěrem, který shrnuje výsledky provedené analýzy.

Teoretická část práce nejprve vymezuje významy obou adverbií, jejich pozici ve větě a následně se zaměřuje na popis jejich syntaktických funkcí. V případě actually, jehož syntaktická funkce se mění s ohledem na jeho umístění ve větě, se vedle disjunktního a subjunktního významu tato část práce věnuje především klasifikaci diskursivních funkcí. Druhá část kapitoly shrnuje historický vývoj sémantického významu obou adverbií a především se zaměřuje na společný etymologický základ a možnou zaměnitelnost těchto dvou slov. Teoretická kapitola je zakončena přehledem překladových protějšků actually a actuellement.

Praktická kapitola je rozdělena do tří podkapitol. První část se věnuje detailní analýze 50 náhodně vybraných příkladů actually a 33 příkladů actuellement získaných z jednojazyčných synchronních korpusů, British National Corpus pro anglické adverbium a Lextutor-Parlé pro francouzské. Na základě pozice ve větě a kontextu se podařilo vymezit lexikální význam obou adverbií a popsat jejich syntaktické funkce. Dále se podařilo prokázat, že dnešní anglické actually opravdu přejímá syntaktickou roli nezačleněného příslovečného určení (19 případů), přičemž vyjadřuje postoj mluvčího k pravdivosti sdělení. Zbylých 31 dokladů actually objevujících se ve funkci diskurzní částice, vykazovalo řadu diskursivních funkcí, především kohezních a kontrastivních. V devíti případech se actually vyskytovalo na začátku věty a napomáhalo soudržnosti textu: uvozuje novou myšlenku navázáním na promluvu předešlého mluvčího nebo také rozvinutím dříve zmíněných faktů. Ve dvou případech se actually na začátku věty objevilo v kolokaci se spojkou and (a). Naopak šest z těchto dokladů sloužilo k uvedení opačného názoru. Tato funkce byla výrazně podpořena kolokacemi adverbia se spojkou but (ale) a různými formami záporu. Zbylé doklady diskurzní částice se vyskytovaly na konci věty, kde má adverbium velmi omezený lexikální význam a slouží především k podpoření mezilidských a společenských interakcí. V několika případech bylo actually využito ke zjemnění reakce a dokonce dodávalo omluvný rozměr předchozímu prohlášení.

Podobně jako u actually i u actuellement se podařilo prokázat lexikální význam adverbia tak, jak byl definovaný v teoretické části práce, tedy příslovečné určení času vyjadřující aktuální průběh děje. Ve 48% případů bylo adverbium začleněné do větné struktury v mediální pozici, v 11 dokladech se actuellement vyskytovalo na začátku věty a pouze ve 4 případech na konci promluvy. V tomto závěru se analýza liší od teoretických poznatků, jelikož Defour et al. (2010) tvrdí, že actuellement se nejčastěji vyskytuje na konci promluvy. Všech 33 dokladů actuellement mělo temporální význam. Zatímco většina případů actuellement vyjadřovala izolovaně temporální význam, ve 30% případů se adverbium vyskytovalo v kontrastu s jiným temporálním rámcem (velmi často se jednalo o srovnání minulosti s aktuální situací). Tento jev naznačuje přiblížení actuellement k anglickému actually více než skrze prostý temporální význam. Tento aspekt byl dále podpořen kolokací actuellement se spojkou mais (ale) podobně jako u anglického actually, což zvýrazňuje kontrastivní funkci adverbia.

Další dvě podkapitoly praktické části se zabývají vymezením překladových protějšků u obou adverbií. Tato analýza proběhla na příkladech získaných z paralelního korpusu InterCorp, konkrétně z jádra, kde byla jako zdrojový jazyk originálů zvolena angličtina nebo francouzština. Ve třetí podkapitole se opět diskutují překladové ekvivalenty, nicméně příklady byly získány z mluvěného paralelního subkorpusu Europarl. V případě obou adverbií došlo k potvrzení významů, jak byly definovány v teoretické části práce, a jak se projevily také v první podkapitole praktické části v příkladech z jednojazyčných korpusů. Nejčastější překladové protějšky francouzského actuellement odpovídaly příslovečnému určení času s významem aktuálnosti a průběhovosti jako např. currently, now, at the moment atd. Kromě toho byly dva příklady z jádra a subkorpusu Europarl přeloženy gramatickými prostředky. Ve všech případech se jednalo o použití slovesného času, ve dvou případech přítomného času průběhového zdůrazňujícího aktuální průběh děje v přítomnosti a v jednom případě předpřítomného času zaměřujícího se na aktuální výsledek děje v přítomnosti. Pět dokladů actuellement bylo přeloženo pomocí actually, nicméně je nutné zmínit, že se zde nejednalo o chybu v překladu, jelikož původní actuellement zde mělo funkci disjunktu, který vyjadřoval postoj mluvčího k promluvě, stejně jako anglické actually. Tento jev se vyskytl pouze v díle Michela Foucaulta – Slova a věci, analyzovaný vzorek je tudíž příliš malý na to, abychom z něj vyvodili jakékoli závěry.

Naopak v překladových ekvivalentech anglických originálů actually se vyskytlo několik překladových chyb, jelikož v jádře korpusu InterCorp, byl jeden doklad přeložen pomocí temporálního adverbia récemment (nedávno). Dva obdobné doklady se vyskytly také v subkorpusu Europarl, kdy jeden z příkladů byl dokonce přeložen pomocí actuellement. Na základě těchto poznatků byla provedena drobná sonda, ve které byly analyzovány věty obsahující actually, přeložené pomocí francouzského actuellement. Ve vzorku 1206 dokladů se našlo 11 případů, kdy actually bylo chybně přeloženo francouzským adverbiem, které zde neodpovídalo použitému významu anglického originálu. Tato sonda tedy potvrzuje problematičnost překladu obou adverbií, která lze považovat za faux-amis. U rozsáhlé části příkladů (48% dokladů v subkorpusu Europarl a 19% případů v jádře) nalezených v InterCorpu, nicméně zcela chyběl překladový protějšek, jelikož adverbium bylo z přeložené věty vynecháno. Zbylé doklady byly přeloženy buď pomocí příslovicí jako např. positivement, effectivement, vraiment atd., nebo pomocí předložkových frází – en fait, en réalité, en vérité atd. Tyto výrazy většinou odpovídají přesnému překladu synonym actually do francouzštiny.

Bakalářská práce tímto potvrdila hypotézy vymezené v úvodní kapitole, především co se týče problematiky faux-amis u obou adverbií a dále možného vývoje diskurzivních funkcí u francouzského actuellement.

REFERENCES AND SOURCES

References

- Aijmer, K. (2002) English Discourse Particles. Evidence from a corpus. Amsterdam/Philadelphia: John Benjamins Publishing Company.
- Biber, D. et al. (2000) Longman Grammar of Spoken and Written English. Harlow, Longman.
- Defour, T. et al., (2010) ,Degrees of pragmaticalization. The divergent histories of ‘actually’ and actuellement‘, Languages in Contrast 10:2, 166-193.
- Grevisse, M. et A. Goosse (1993) Le bon usage: grammaire française. Paris: Duculot.
- Hladký, J. (1990) Zrádná slova v angličtině. Praha: SPN.
- Johansson, S. (2007) Seeing through Multilingual Corpora: On the use of corpora in contrastive studies. Amsterdam/Philadelphia: John Benjamins Publishing Company.
- Mortier, L. and L. Degand (2009) ,Adversative discourse markers in contrast. The need for a combined corpus approach‘, International Journal of Corpus Linguistics 14:3, 338-366.
- Quirk, R. et al. (1985) A Comprehensive Grammar of the English Language. London: Longman.

Sources

- British National Corpus. Last accessed 22 May 2015. Available at <http://bncweb.lancs.ac.uk/>
- Český národní korpus - InterCorp. Ústav Českého národního korpusu FF UK, Praha. Last accessed 22 May 2015. Available at <http://www.korpus.cz/>

Lextutor, Université du Québec à Montréal, Tom Cobb. Last accessed 22 May 2015.
Available at <http://lex tutor.ca/conc/fr/>

APPENDIX

British National Corpus

No. Example

1. so she's, her aunty's going to Dublin, so I got these things and they were really cheap actually. There's the train fare from here to Holyhead return, the ferry, transfers to their hotel the best hotel in Dublin,
2. Oh well I'll, I'll look, I'll ring I didn't actually ring I'll find out anyway them up and ask them and actually you know this Time Chemicals, they, they deliver you know, they come here with the stuff.
3. Yeah! but she's thick! No brain! How big does she think Actually, I thought It's like on Delboy last night, i he he said er he's he's in hospital with a nurse watching him all day.
4. Erm what we can do is er use something here. I bought this lot down with me. It might be in the other room actually.
5. Like, I'm not talking, I don't care whether that, I'm talking about the way her hair's done, the style, the Mm. way it's cut is actually, she went to hairdressers to get it cut.
6. Smells nice though. Well can you prove that? Yes you can. Smells yeah I can actually. Yeah! Can you? Listen to a plonker! Nah. Actually it depends when you said it. When did you say it?
7. That's bollocks. I've had a whole series of catastrophes No you haven't. Name one. so Er don't name one actually, I don't wanna hear.
8. And not only that you've only got ta You've got ta have people if you haven't got something organized beforehand. Even if Yeah. you don't actually mention it.
9. Yeah well I put it upstairs. Whereabouts? In your bedroom. Oh I never see it! What near the computer? I don't know where I put it actually, but it is in there.

10. D'you know anybody else that's got a jig? No. Actually I do. There's a bloke erm Sharon's dad bought erm my brother-in-law's Citroen off him.
11. That's Debbie, she's , she's , she'll be thirty this month Yes, it's a funny old thing, actually I must tell you I feel an awful lot better since I've passed my I suppose,
12. Well, apple tart, but you know, things we bring in, apple tarts erm, custard slices, a the occasional eclair erm, yeah, we do quite a range, actually. Mm. Yes, we got six freezers,
13. Alright, so you can see it. Centimetres is seventy-five. Seven point five isn't it? Not seventy-five. Oh, alright. Have you actually measured it on your diagram?
14. Is he as old as Jonathan? Same age! virtually. Yeah. Well when he was so and it Actually do it myself What are you doing? can't he?
15. Was it her on the phone? My no it was erm Vicky. sound like Vicky actually.
16. Cos it was actually quite safe the way you walked in here. It's, it's a really safe bloke actually. You walked in and you goes Melissa and Rupert goes ooh!
17. Really nice! It's a really smart place. Mhm. And er you'd better get that key actually. Oh. I hope it's in the other room hopefully.
18. Yeah that's right and nightmares about the economy actually getting better Ha ha ha , you are a socialist scum I know.
19. Erm quite commonly, gypsies have been defined by geourgos. it says, by the predominant er you know, house- growing population. Erm how far that actually is accurate er, designation of them as a a group, is, is debatable.
20. I've heard it before Yeah, that was an easy one actually, cos that one was.on telly
21. How's the. . Lovely, yeah. I haven't actually do Darren has, Darren has. What is it you've got for me?
22. Say, have a dozen of those floating around the garden. Yeah, they're nice actually! Well yeah I su I suppose there must be!
23. And when the police car comes round Ray and they can't do anything until they actually ca hear them.
24. That's gonna be really nice I think. I think I might come down actually. Yeah do that. I can't Mm. so I may as well.
25. Poor old Caroline. He had a happy life though Caroline. Yeah. Met with a grisly end, but I don't think so actually Sarah. Yes I did as well.

26. But you could actually put a bag all the way and tie it into tie it into er the it's the Skillery Bridge that one.
27. a lot of them were too complicated for me to explain to you but I mean I appreciated the the miracle of it all, like they could actually take the thing to pieces.
28. Right erm I shall have to get Muriel some change actually.
29. Because he went to Little Abbotsbury Prep School and at the age of four I mean, he could read and read quite well actually, and erm write very well actually!
30. I used to say a half an hour and then when they ran to waken me I'd say give me five more minutes and then another five minutes and I actually ended up with forty five minutes
31. Oh he had that Cavalier for a few years after I sold it. Yeah. Actually that wasn't a bad car either, to drive.
32. yeah you need a microscope don't you to see it they're not actually printing
33. Mm, yeah telling her all the signs and what to look out for I haven't been to Heathrow as much as I'd been to Gatwick I've never actually flown from Heathrow
34. U P V C ones and erm but you see, in the kitchen they don't go with Yeah. you see. Er but erm actually, I I, in erm erm sorry, er, but of course that was a bathroom, but we didn't have a blind up.
35. Daddy. I think you need to go to the toilet don't you? Yes oh dear, if it's not one thing it's another! Is it wet? It's just damp actually. Because the wee wee has dried up
36. just to clarify my thinking what is it you do actually want to think about, is it the the colour, is it what glass you want in the bathroom? Is it the choice of handles?
37. I haven't had a jelly for ages and I got one from Sainsbury's. A lemon jelly. And I actually did it in a plastic basin.
38. Who's he? Director of BSG. Oh is he, I dunno anything about BSG. What about oh no. No actually's not the top dog is he? Isn't he?
39. I support this charity Cos they do actually er deserve all the money they get.
40. I meant to ask, oh Aha aha. Pardon? Right. Right. Pardon? Er oh yes, yes I have actually. Let's put this cake back in its tin.
41. To be perfectly honest, he is quite an embarrassment! Quite right. Yeah, I agree actually. Yeah, can be a pain in the arse!

42. Did you think well I, I'm not I think they must have opened it doesn't say on that customs actually have opened them.
43. Will it help Barry if if I can use the same to actually ask him if?
44. But the chances are nobody'll wanna go till after the pubs anyway with these dos so, cos it's not actually and, they're having a sort of reception after the wedding
45. I know it's awful making you actually have to decide for yourself.
46. Get a lie in. Yeah. Yeah it's what you've got. Is he old? quite good looking actually. In his erm late thirties.
47. Your alarm clock went off this morning then Pete? Oh yes Yeah this morning he, did he actually remember to set it last evening
48. Right come on Mr man Come on you can put your ITV on in a minute I'm in got in now actually oh sorry Oh sorry, go and knock you out there
49. I reckon I'll cut that up perhaps and Yeah. And put the bottom actually It came from erm it's gonna fit. a flat It's plastic.
50. My brother actually, Michael has been very good he still sees erm cos he's always friends with and they're really good friends. I mean it's not, it's not the same kind of thing

Lextutor-Parlé

No. Example

1. J'ai entendu cet appel alors je je je Donc là, c'est le Centre de Transfusion Sanguine de Rennes On a actuellement des difficultés.
2. Je pense que a, bon ben évidemment c'est c'est très pratique de voir ce qu'on a actuellement, c'est du point de vue ordinateur
3. Ensuite j'ai été pendant cinq ans chez mes parents où vraiment c'était le cau, le cauchemar. J'ai été mis dans un, dans une maison de redressement, ce qu'on appelle actuellement une maison de correction.
4. La voile donc avec des optimistes. Nous avons actuellement une dizaine d'optimistes et les enfants font de la voile et pour cette première année ils ont fait même une grande randonnée,
5. il faut séparer les problèmes de nucléaire en matière de de. problèmes militaires et puis le l'énergie nucléaire civile, celle dont on a vraiment besoin actuellement pour se chauffer,
6. Je pense que l'appréciation pour chaque pays est différent bon parce que bon actuellement l'appréciation de l'Allemagne... bon, ça dépend des générations, je pense que dans les générations d'A. ou d'avant
7. le une écloserie de homards, c'est-à-dire la reproduction des bébés-homards puisque en fin de compte actuellement c'est la période du homard, les meilleurs homards viennent évidemment de l'île d'Houat.
8. Mais ça bien sûr, ça, ça concerne euh la partie donc ouest de la Bretagne, ça concerne actuellement encore environ. personnes qui parlent quotidiennement le le breton.
9. je pourrais être considéré actuellement à % ... et.. Qu'est-ce que ça veut dire considéré à % ?
10. En remontant vers le nord les remparts qui ferment le boucle du Lot et ici le pont Valentré dont on visite la tour centrale et où on présente un diaporama actuellement. Très bien.
11. C'était assez difficile, les conditions sont assez difficiles actuellement en France pour s'installer alors j'ai cherché une association où ils relient derrière une personne âgée.

12. Voilà. Alors là oui, ts, cela dit, actuellement l'opposition en France n'a pas un projet suffisamment clair et défini pour représenter une menace vraiment dangereuse euh au pouvoir.
13. On on... le problème, c'était le chômage à à la sortie des études ou bien là le choix entre l'enseignement public ou privé des collèges ou des lycées mais qui est actuellement en France dans une situation catastrophique c'est vraiment pas très drôle d'enseigner dans un collège
14. Ils pêchent également des des araignées avant, des dormeurs, des chèvres, du poisson et actuellement aussi ils pêchent beaucoup des grosses crevettes qu'on appelle ici des bouquets.
15. Euhm actuellement euh toute cette euh cette vague euh euh très dynamique qu'il y a eu dans les années ' et au début des années ' est un petit peu retombée
16. je crois que les les spécialistes sont suffisamment sérieux pour se rendre compte à temps de ce qui se passe et par exemple actuellement il y a une centrale, il y a un supergénérateur en France qui a été arrêté parce qu'il y a eu une fuite de sodium.
17. Mais non, pour l'instant, ça va. Il y a une formation ? Oui, je suis en formation actuellement. Mais on le fait en travaillant ? Voilà, sur le terrain.
18. Et si à une époque les Russes étaient reconnus comme nos amis puisqu'ils ont participé avec... à nos côtés à la guerre, actuellement suivant les gens on ne sait pas exactement où les mettre
19. Alors maintenant il y a il y a presque pas d'habitants, c'est c'est Très peu, le village à cette époque-là comptait habitants. actuellement, en période estivale environ en période d'hiver entre et, très, très peu.
20. Les grosses fortunes anglaises, par exemple je sais pas en Angleterre ils paient des impôts en Angleterre, mais ils payaient pas d'impôts euh proportionnellement à ce qu'on impose actuellement.
21. ça me poursuivra de plus en plus puisque maintenant ça me retombe dans le genou. J'ai fait un infarctus euh ... là, j'ai ans là actuellement.
22. Enfin il y a un effort certain qui a été fait, hein ? Dans les bibliothèques. Mais actuellement, il y a vraiment des des je crois qu'il y a j'espère que les bibliothécaires vont bien faire leur travail
23. Non, enfin, ce que tu appelles des armes, disons que la technique nucléaire est relativement bien maîtrisée actuellement bon certains sont pas d'accord, il y a des fuites dans certaines centrales... Oui, il y a eu, il y a eu, il y en a toujours hein.

24. est-ce que tu es médecin installé ? Non, actuellement je travaille à l'hôpital en tant qu'interne, c'est-à-dire que je suis également en formation pour une période d'à peu près quatre ans.
25. Bon, ceci dit, il faut bien se rendre à l'évidence, on ne peut pas actuellement se passer du nucléaire, on ne va pas retourner quand même à à l'âge de Cro-Magnon euh et on peut plus se chauffer au charbon,
26. Nos cars euh sont conçus pour personnes. actuellement nous avons une quinzaine, donc quinze inscriptions. Nous espérons bien sûr avoir du plus de monde pour cette cette journée.
27. Ensuite, le travail du lin, les tissus, tout ce qui est tout ce qui concerne ce que les gens portaient, les coiffes et au dernier étage, c'est les ateliers reconstitués dont on ne retrouve plus actuellement cordonnier, tonnelier, forge, taille de pierre, menuiserie, sabotier.
28. Qu'en pensez- vous, B.? Oui mais je pense que actuellement pff le contexte social peut avoir le phénomène de renforcer ce patriotisme du fait que le chômage monte et les réactions des gens étant ce qu'elles sont...
29. Je pense que le phénomène, les élections actuelle et l'audience que qu'a actuellement une certaine opinion politique dans le dans le pays détermine quand même euh que des gens euh sous couvert d'un certain patriotisme ont quand même des réactions qui ne sont pas à négliger.
30. Je suis belge, j'ai passé mes vacances tout au moins la grosse partie de ma vacance en France et je me trouve actuellement dans les Charentes au voisinage de la rivière qui s'appelle la Charente d'ailleurs.
31. Y avait pas y avait pas tout ce qu'on voit actuellement, c'est-à-dire que quand vous voulez lancer quelque chose on commence par vous demander de l'argent
32. Pendant les vacances [?] Euh, ce qui nous tracasse plutôt, où on est vraiment choqués, c'est les agressions, les choses comme ça actuellement euh, vraiment euh. Ça devient lamentable, quoi.
33. Ça fait une quinzaine d'années que je pratique l'accordéon, oui, et alors, bon j'aime ça et je trouve que c'est un instrument qui est très complet... plaît quand même au public. Oui et on écoute actuellement un jeune qui commence...

InterCorp – fiction core (EN)

No.	EN	FR
1.	He was about to go back upstairs when Uncle Vernon actually spoke	Il s'apprêtait à remonter l'escalier lorsque l'oncle Vernon se mit à parler
2.	Percy's Ravenclaw girlfriend, Penelope Clearwater, asked if she could actually hold the Firebolt	Pénélope Deauclaire, la petite amie de Percy, demanda la permission de prendre le balai entre ses mains
3.	It turned out later that only one horse had been actually stolen.	Il s'avéra par la suite qu'un seul cheval avait été vraiment volé.
4.	You did not see, but that Black Rider stopped just here and was actually crawling towards us when the song began.	Vous ne l'avez pas vu, mais ce cavalier noir s'est arrêté juste ici, et il rampait précisément vers nous quand le chant s'est élevé.
5.	when the Rabbit actually took a watch out of its waistcoat-pocket, and looked at it, and then hurried on, Alice started to her feet	lorsque le Lapin tira bel et bien une montre de la poche de son gilet, regarda l'heure, et se mit à courir de plus belle, Alice se dressa d'un bond
6.	the ridiculous young Took, encouraged by his success with the fat Mayor of Michel Delving , was now actually giving a comic account of Bilbo's farewell party.	le ridicule jeune Touque, encouragé par le succès de son histoire du gros maire de Grand'Cave, faisait à présent positivement un récit comique de la soirée d'adieu de Bilbon.
7.	Frodo showed no sign of weariness and made no attempt to change the subject, though actually he soon got rather lost among the strange names of people and places	Frodon ne montrait aucun signe de lasitude et il ne fit aucune tentative pour changer de sujet, bien qu'en vérité il fût bientôt perdu parmi les étranges noms de personnages et de lieux
8.	Lessing has advanced excellent reasons for supposing that the Martians have actually succeeded in effecting a landing on the planet Venus.	Lessing a donné d'excellentes raisons de supposer que les Martiens ont effectivement réussi à faire une descente sur la planète Vénus.

9. And pretending that you had come to the end of your money, and actually selling your beloved Bag End to those Sackville-Bagginses! Et prétendre être arrivé au bout de ton argent! Aller vendre positivement ton Cul-de-Sac bien-aimé à ces Sacquet de Besace!
10. his hair disordered, and as it seemed to me greyer - either with dust and dirt or because its colour had actually faded. sa chevelure était emmêlée et elle me sembla plus grise - soit à cause de la poussière, soit que sa couleur ait réellement changé.
11. People were actually clambering down the piers of the bridge from above les gens qui les assaillirent , car beaucoup se risquèrent à descendre au long des piles du pont.
12. Very odd,' said Frodo, tightening his belt,' considering that there is actually a good deal less of me. Très curieux, dit Frodon, serrant sa ceinture, vu qu'il y a passablement moins de ma personne.
13. Actually in Hobbiton and Bywater every day in the year it was somebody's birthday, En fait, à Hobbitebourg et à Lèzeau, chaque jour de l'année était l'anniversaire de quelqu'un
14. Actually his view was screened by a tall line of beans on poles En fait, sa vue était limitée par une haute rame de haricots
15. Was the Grim going to haunt him until he actually died? Le Sinistros allait-il continuer de le narquer jusqu'à ce qu'il meure vraiment?
16. It was the only occasion on which I actually saw the Martians feed. Ce fut la seule occasion où j'ai vu réellement un Martien prendre de la nourriture.
17. Some people are actually accusing me of spiriting Bilbo away, or worse. D'aucuns m'accusent positivement d'avoir fait disparaître Bilbon par enchantement, ou pis.
18. Frodo actually laughed. Frodon rit positivement.
19. Actually Gandalf was awake, though lying still and silent. En fait, celui-ci était éveillé, quoiqu'il restât étendu immobile et silencieux.
20. "Seriously," said Professor McGonagall, and she was actually smiling. Pour de bon, assura le professeur McGonagall en souriant, ce qui était rare chez elle.

21. Then Thursday, September the 22nd, actually dawned. Puis l'aube du jeudi 22 septembre apparut pour de bon.
22. Actually in the Shire in Bilbo's days it was, as a rule, only the richest and the poorest Hobbits that maintained the old custom. De fait, dans la Comté au temps de Bilbon, seuls en général les plus riches et les plus pauvres maintenaient l'ancienne coutume.
23. For they are a little people, smaller than Dwarves: less stout and stocky, that is, even when they are not actually much shorter. Car ce sont de petites personnes, plus menues que les nains: ils sont moins gros et trapus, disons, même s'ils ne sont pas vraiment beaucoup plus courts
24. Soon it began to descend rapidly and they guessed that it must actually be heading towards the Withywindle valley Il ne tarda pas à descendre rapidement, et ils devinèrent qu'il devait en fait se diriger vers la vallée du Tournesaules
25. If I am right, tomorrow we may actually see the morning peeping in. Si je ne me trompe, demain nous pourrons positivement voir pointer le matin.
26. She was actually shaking her finger in Malfoys direction, her hat had fallen off, and she too was shouting furiously. Elle était trop occupée à brandir le poing en direction de Malefoy. Son chapeau était tombé et elle aussi hurlait avec colère
27. In this way they advanced some fifteen miles , measured in a direct line east , though they must have actually walked twenty miles or more. Ils parcoururent ainsi une quinzaine de milles, mesurés en ligne droite vers l'est, bien qu'ils dussent en avoir fait en vérité vingt ou davantage.
28. It was actually pleasant, I think, to hear a kindly voice again Il lui fut en réalité agréable, je présume, d'entendre à nouveau une bonne voix
29. Then he actually rose from his seat and bowed. Puis il se leva pour s'incliner
30. A bald man in a very long purple coat had actually shaken his hand in the street the other day and then walked away without a word. Récemment encore, un homme chauve dans un long manteau pourpre lui avait serré la main dans la rue, puis était reparti sans dire un mot.

31. They do say the trees do actually move, and can surround strangers and hem them in. On dit bien que les arbres se meuvent réellement et qu'ils peuvent entourer un étranger et le cerner.
32. To some there Bilbo's tale was wholly new, and they listened with amazement while the old hobbit, actually not at all displeased, recounted his adventure with Gollum, at full length. Pour certains des auditeurs, le récit de Bilbon était entièrement nouveau, et ils écoutèrent avec étonnement tandis que le vieux Hobbit, assez satisfait en vérité, narrait en détail son aventure avec Gollum.

InterCorp – fiction core (FR)

No.	FR	EN
1.	dans l'espace actuellement défini par l'ensemble des choses et des signes dont on dispose.	in die area actually defined by the totality of things and of the signs at one's disposal.
2.	il se pourrait bien que toutes les questions qui traversent actuellement notre curiosité (Qu'est-ce que le langage?)	It is quite possible that all those questions now confronting our curiosity (What is language?)
3.	ou bien il en est réellement et actuellement séparé.	or else it is really and actually separated from what it serves to designate.
4.	Il implique d'abord que la chaîne des êtres, tendue par une série innombrable d'anneaux vers la perfection absolue de Dieu, ne la rejoigne pas actuellement ;	He implies in the first place that the chain of being, stretching up through an innumerable series of links towards the perfection of God, does not at present attain to it
5.	C'est-à-dire que pour le spectateur qui actuellement le regarde, il est à droite de son tableau qui, lui, occupe toute l'extrême gauche.	That is, for the spectator at present observing him he is to the right of his canvas, while the latter, the canvas, takes up the whole of the extreme left.
6.	race à laquelle appartiennent actuellement les riches négociants indigènes de Bombay	among whom are counted the richest native merchants of Bombay were celebrating a sort of religious carnival

7. Mais, sans doute, sa colère s'expliquait par ce fait que le mormonisme était actuellement soumis à de dures épreuves
No doubt his anger arose from the hardships to which the Mormons were actually subjected
8. Le peintre fixe actuellement un lieu qui d'instant en instant ne cesse de changer de contenu, de forme, de visage, d'identité.
The painter is observing a place which, from moment to moment, never ceases to change its content, its form, its face, its identity.
9. le signifiant et le signifié ne sont liés que dans la mesure où l'un et l'autre sont (ou ont été ou peuvent être) représentés, et où l'un représente actuellement l'autre.
the signifying element and the signified element are linked only in so far as they are (or have been or can be) represented, and in so far as the one actually represents the other
10. Dans ce sens, l'auteur anonyme du Compendious demande que «toute la monnaie actuellement courante ne le soit plus à partir d'une certaine date
In this sense, the anonymous author of the Compendious insists that all the money actually current should cease to be so after a certain date,
11. Ce tour du monde à accomplir, autrement qu'en théorie et sur le papier, dans ce minimum de temps, avec les moyens de communication actuellement en usage, ce n'était pas seulement impossible, c'était insensé!
it was absurd, impossible, they declared, that the tour of the world could be made, except theoretically and on paper, in this minimum of time, and with the existing means of travelling 12. faute de quoi les vingt mille livres déposées actuellement à mon crédit chez Baring frères vous appartiendront de fait et de droit, messieurs.
or else the twenty thousand pounds, now deposited in my name at Baring's, will belong to you, in fact and in right, gentlemen.

InterCorp – Europarl (EN)

No.	EN	FR
1.	The point about openness and free trade and transparency is that you face that and actually deal with it appropriately.	Ce qui est important concernant l'ouverture, le libre-échange et la transparence est qu'il faut faire face à ces questions et les aborder de manière appropriée.
2.	What they really want is access, in the first place, or a choice through which they actually have some sort of access.	Ce qu'ils veulent avant tout est un accès, ou un choix qui leur donne réellement un certain accès.
3.	But we have to face reality that the inflation rate has actually increased from 1.9% in August last year to 3.6% in April 2008.	Mais il faut regarder la réalité en face, à savoir que le taux d'inflation est en fait passé de 1,9% en août de l'année passée à 3,6% en avril 2008.
4.	On the contrary, it has actually been kept active, even over the past few weeks,	Au contraire, il a en réalité été maintenu actif, même au cours de ces dernières semaines,
5.	We actually pushed very hard for this event, which took place in July in Geneva.	Nous avons en fait encouragé la tenue de cet événement, qui a eu lieu à Genève au mois de juillet.
6.	what we are actually doing is ensuring that we have enough entrepreneurs and innovators in a country,	en réalité , nous nous efforçons d'avoir suffisamment d'entrepreneurs et d'innovateurs dans un pays
7.	The closing date for making our submission has actually passed by a few days.	Le délai pour le dépôt de nos propositions a expiré il y a quelques jours.
8.	those sorts of behaviour which actually disrupt the parliamentary sitting.	de ce genre de comportements qui constituent une entrave au déroulement de la session parlementaire.
9.	The problem is actually getting buyers and demand back into the economy.	Le problème est plutôt de faire revenir les acheteurs et de stimuler la demande.

10. I know it is forbidden, but I think it is actually quite fun, so it should be allowed.
11. they come from this committee in this place actually means they are going to be buried much quicker
12. I am concerned much more about the implementation by individual states in the United States than I am by what it actually said.
13. We say we have an exception for them, but how will being associated with a banned product actually affect their lifestyle and their economy?
14. I see no evidence that the Commission is actually ensuring that the Member States being urged to engage in fiscal consolidation are taking account of the fact
15. Mr Paolo De Castro asked on behalf of the Committee that we say what we are actually doing.
16. We should rather address the free rider issue when, and only if, it actually arises
17. What is the EU actually doing in terms of specific projects?
18. what it actually means when you elect somebody from UKIP to this place.
19. As soon as prices rise, please do not actually put a tax on it because that would not be quite right in my opinion
- Je sais que cela est interdit, mais je trouve cela vraiment très amusant, alors ce devrait être autorisé.
- Toutefois, le fait que ces recommandations proviennent de cette commission de notre Parlement les condamne à être jetées aux oubliettes beaucoup plus vite.
- Si j'ai été rassurée, jusqu'à un certain point, par les déclarations que m'ont faites le ministre du commerce, Chen Deming, et le Vice-premier ministre, Tang Jiaxuan,
- Nous disons que nous avons fait une exception pour eux, mais quel sera l'impact, sur leur style de vie et leur économie, de cette association avec un produit interdit?
- Rien ne m'amène à penser que la Commission s'assure effectivement que les États membres poussés à la consolidation fiscale n'oublient pas la nécessité
- M. Paolo De Castro nous a demandé, au nom de la commission, d'expliquer ce que nous faisons actuellement.
- Nous ne devrions nous occuper du problème du cavalier seul que s'il se pose et au moment où il se pose.
- Que fait l'Europe exactement en matière de projets spécifiques?
- ce que signifie réellement l'élection de personnes de l'UKIP au Parlement européen.
- Ne mettez pas, s'il vous plaît, de taxe sur les prix dès qu'ils grimpent, ce ne serait à mon avis pas juste.

20. you make me realise that what I saw yesterday was actually for real. je réalise grâce à vous que ce que j'ai vu hier était en fait la réalité
21. Firstly, corporate registration, so that a company or organisation with more than one site can actually register once in one country, which is very important. La première concerne l'enregistrement des sociétés et permet à une entreprise ou à une organisation ayant plusieurs sites de s'enregistrer une seule fois et dans un seul pays, ce qui est très important
22. I consider it actually essential that the Sri Lankan army be permitted to continue their military campaign against the Tamil Tigers. je considère qu'il est réellement essentiel que l'armée sri lankaise soit autorisée à poursuivre sa campagne militaire contre les Tigres tamous.
23. they do not actually originate from those farms alors qu'en fait elle ne provient pas de ces élevages.
24. I suppose it gave my antibodies something to do in the days when we actually had antibodies J'imagine que mes anticorps ont eu de quoi s'occuper, à l'époque où nous avions encore des anticorps
25. Actually many people would like to see the regulation that comes from this place better implemented across the whole of the European Union En fait, nombreux sont ceux qui aimeraient que cette réglementation soit mieux mise en oeuvre dans toute l'Union européenne
26. Some actually had to hire an expert to do the application for them. En fait, certains ont même dû engager un expert pour remplir la demande à leur place.
27. This programme actually started back in 1987 as an emergency measure in a time of abundant surpluses of agricultural production. Ce programme a été lancé en 1987 sous la forme d'une mesure d'urgence à une époque où la production agricole présentait des surplus importants.
28. We have production in Europe today that is 45% below quota, so what would happen if we actually wanted to cut quota by 5%? Nous avons aujourd'hui en Europe une production inférieure de 45% aux quotas, alors que se passerait -il si nous voulions réduire les quotas de 5%?
29. we should be ashamed of the fact that it is actually the people affected by this who have taken this up on their own nous devrions avoir honte du fait que ce sont les personnes touchées par ce problème qui s'en sont chargées elles-mêmes

30. Actually, I had some problems pronouncing it myself. À vrai dire, j'ai eu moi aussi un peu de mal à prononcer ce mot.
31. Community level so that people can actually increase their reliance on themselves. des innovations telles que l'offre de semences et d'outils dans les communautés.
32. The Commission shares many of the concerns expressed during the discussion and actually supports many of the proposals put forward by Ms Muscardini's report. La Commission partage un grand nombre des préoccupations soulevées lors du débat et soutient de nombreuses propositions présentées dans le rapport de Mme Muscardini
33. what we actually mean when we talk about research in the bee sector. ce que nous voulons vraiment dire quand nous parlons de recherche dans le domaine apicole.
34. that the money will actually go into this sector, to energy efficiency and low energy? de telle sorte que l'argent puisse être réellement affecté à ce secteur, à l'efficacité énergétique et à la basse consommation?
35. It is one of the moments or follow-ups of the Lahti Summit of October 2006 and actually we only proposed the draft text one day before the summit. C'est un des moments ou une des suites du sommet de Lahti d'octobre 2006 et nous n'avons en fait proposé le projet de texte qu'un jour avant le sommet.
36. the negative consequences of taking part in sport and then totally wiping out the benefits by using products which are actually harmful to health. il convient d'indiquer clairement les effets négatifs potentiels de ces produits sur les sportifs.
37. Indeed, the only rumours that I have picked up about such unwarranted concessions actually came from the Irish Foreign Minister in the General Affairs Council today. En effet, les seules rumeurs que j'ai entendues à propos de concessions aussi injustifiées viennent en fait du ministre irlandais des affaires étrangères au conseil des affaires étrangères aujourd'hui.
38. The creation of the European research area, which I fully support, is actually exactly this idea La création de l'Espace européen de la recherche, que je soutiens avec enthousiasme, repose précisément sur cette idée
39. it does not stop people in need of protection actually getting it. elle n'empêche pas les personnes ayant besoin d'une protection de l'obtenir réellement.

40. I once again congratulate the Commission for actually standing up and saying what needed to be said before the Council acted
41. ETS is much more effective than taxes in actually reaching our emissions targets.
42. It is essential that the day-to-day business of insurance and reinsurance companies is actually watched, managed and monitored by regulators over a period of time.
43. I hope - as we monitor those - will actually go some way to alleviating the concerns, but certainly will be part of our continuing relationship with Colombia
44. they are actually giving clear , independent advice
45. I think today we are faced with a vital challenge: actually to use what we know and what we have in support of political process
46. we are actually undermining everything else that we do on the economy,
47. I object to the fact that was not actually put to the House
48. The EU is actually part of the problem, not the solution.
49. The reason for that is that they tabled their proposals for the budget in another form, rather than actually tabling a formal opinion.
- Je félicite une fois encore la Commission pour avoir fait face et dit ce qu'il fallait dire avant que le Conseil n'agisse,
- Le marché de quotas d'émission est beaucoup plus efficace que la taxation pour atteindre nos objectifs de réduction des émissions.
- Il est essentiel que les activités quotidiennes des entreprises d'assurance et de réassurance soient réellement observées, gérées et contrôlées par des régulateurs sur une période de temps.
- je l'espère - lorsque nous évaluerons leur mise en oeuvre - permettront de dissiper quelque peu les inquiétudes.
- elles représentent ces fonds eux-mêmes ou si elles donnent des avis clairs et indépendants.
- Je pense qu'aujourd'hui, nous sommes confrontés à un défi crucial, celui d'utiliser ce que nous savons et ce dont nous disposons pour soutenir le processus politique
- nous compromettons en fait tout ce que nous faisons dans le domaine de l'économie,
- Je conteste donc le fait que la question ait été soumise au Parlement.
- En fait, l'UE fait partie du problème, pas de la solution
- Cela s'explique par le fait qu'elle a déposé ses propositions de budget sous une autre forme qu'un simple avis formel

50. I think, actually, that we will see the opposite, je pense en réalité que nous verrons le contraire,

InterCorp – Europarl (FR)

No.	FR	EN
1.	les stocks de céréales dont dispose actuellement l'Europe à vingt-sept ont été divisés par deux depuis 2005	the EU's cereal reserve has halved since 2005
2.	l'Union européenne ne propose pas actuellement de politique cohérente permettant à son économie de relever les défis de compétitivité	the report does not discuss the issues linked to currency manipulation in the world
3.	un cycle de Doha consacré au développement, les aspects liés à la sécurité alimentaire, à la production alimentaire équilibrée à l'intérieur de la planète, devraient être davantage pris en compte qu'ils ne le sont actuellement	the Doha Round on development should pay more attention to the aspects of food security and balanced global food production than it is doing at present
4.	à défaut au niveau des accords birégionaux que négocie actuellement l'Europe.	in the absence of any bi-regional agreements currently being negotiated by Europe.
5.	Je vous signale que certains de nos collègues sont actuellement en Sierra Leone pour y suivre les élections	I should point out that some of our colleagues are currently in Sierra Leone to monitor the elections there
6.	L'accord commercial actuellement en cours de discussion vise un marché de 57 milliards d'euros,	The trade agreement currently under discussion is looking at a market worth EUR 57 billion
7.	il n'est pas plus improbable que celui sur lequel travaillent actuellement les chancelleries.	it is no more improbable than the one on which the chancelleries are currently working.

8. cela me semble, par exemple, être le cas actuellement dans un grand pays du Sud de l'Union européenne que je ne citerai pas I think is currently happening in one big country in the south of the European Union, which shall remain nameless
9. les soi-disant "Implementing Arrangements" négociés entre certains États membres et les USA échappent actuellement à toute transparence. the implementing agreements negotiated between certain Member States and the United States should at the moment be completely non-transparent.
10. Vous savez que des réflexions sont actuellement en cours au sein du Conseil. There is, however, an urgent need to address these issues which require further action and more short-term measures.
11. Si l'on en juge par le climat politique qui règne actuellement en Afghanistan, il sera plus difficile d'obtenir la libération en toute sécurité de M. Kambakhsh Judging by the current political climate in Afghanistan, it will be harder to secure Mr Kambakhsh's safe release
12. Premier élément, nous voyons bien que nos villes se développent actuellement, qu'elles soient petites, grandes ou moyennes, Firstly, it is clear that our urban areas are currently growing, whether they are small, large or medium-sized,
13. Je ne pense pas, je n'espère pas, que les valeurs pour l'Afrique viennent de la Chine, avec son aggressive invasion économique que l'on observe actuellement I think and hope that values for Africa do not come from China, with its aggressive economic invasion that we are witnessing at the moment
14. Actuellement, il est très difficile de les sanctionner, Currently it is very hard to take sanctions against them
15. Pour la Commission, les dispositions sur la protection des données figurant dans la décision de juin 2007, ainsi que dans le projet actuellement en discussion In the Commission's view, the provisions on data protection laid down in the decision of June 2007, as well as in the draft currently being debated
16. la crise particulièrement grave que vit actuellement l'élevage européen the particularly serious crisis currently being experienced by European livestock farmers shows.

17. Actuellement, les grandes banques centrales ont dû recommencer à injecter des milliards dans les circuits financiers The leading central banks have again been forced to inject billions into the financial circuits
18. Sa part de marché, après avoir décliné depuis 1970 dans la plupart des États membres, s'est actuellement stabilisée et donne des signes clairs de croissance Having fallen after 1970 in most of the Member States, its market share has now stabilised and is showing clear signs of growth
19. Ces projets pourraient accroître les rebombées de la coopération instaurée dans le cadre actuellement en vigueur Such projects could significantly strengthen the impact of cooperation launched under the current working arrangements
20. Actuellement, 18 avions, 20 hélicoptères, 105 navires sont mis à la disposition par les États membres, sur une base volontaire. At present, 18 aircraft, 20 helicopters and 105 vessels are made available by the Member States on a voluntary basis
21. En Afrique du Nord se construisent actuellement dix usines de verre flottant destiné au marché européen In North Africa 10 factories are currently being built to produce floating glass for the European market
22. le Conseil ait enfin mandaté la Commission européenne pour négocier avec les États-Unis afin d'inclure les douze pays qui en étaient actuellement exclus dans le programme d'exemption des visas that the Council has finally given the European Commission a mandate to negotiate with the United States on the inclusion in the Visa Waiver Programme of the 12 countries that were currently excluded
23. Actuellement, les coûts environnementaux des activités humaines, notamment industrielles et économiques At the moment, very little account is taken of the environmental costs of human activities,
24. Ce péril est tout simplement actuellement ignoré currently, people are quite simply unaware of this danger
25. s'est actuellement stabilisée et est même en croissance has now stabilised and is in fact growing
26. vers la Belgique qu'il s'oriente actuellement for Belgium at this point in time

27. À l'évidence, les moyens actuellement alloués ne sont plus conformes aux larges responsabilités politiques It would seem that the resources currently allocated are no longer a match for the broader political responsibilities
28. Actuellement, les procédures d'homologation nationale du matériel roulant s'avèrent trop longues et trop coûteuses. The current procedures for national approvals of rolling stock are too long and costly.
29. qui sont actuellement incarcérés au Niger who are currently in prison in Niger
30. actuellement régi par d'anciens règlements et directive. currently governed by previous regulations and directives.
31. nous examinons actuellement les instruments et les politiques communautaires we are currently examining the Community instruments and policies
32. la catastrophe qui se déroule actuellement dans cette région du monde the scale of the disaster currently unfolding in that part of the world
33. Actuellement, seulement 4% de l'énergie au niveau mondial est de l'énergie d'origine nucléaire Only 4% of energy worldwide is nuclear at the moment
34. La coopération internationale a malheureusement des limites et, actuellement, on ne peut que déplorer la décision unilatérale du Congrès américain sur le 100% Unfortunately, there are limits to international cooperation and at present we can only deplore the US Congress's unilateral decision on 100%
35. nous travaillons actuellement sur les textes de grande ampleur we are currently examining very significant texts
36. Le déploiement, dès le 12 février 2008, de la mission Eufor -actuellement, c'est 600 hommes the EUFOR mission - which now consists of 600 men
37. Les modalités pour le calcul de la période de rétractation seront harmonisées puisque, actuellement, le délai de rétractation est par exemple de sept jours minimum pour les achats à distance, The arrangements for calculating the period of withdrawal will be harmonised: at the moment the withdrawal period is, for example, a minimum of seven days for distance contracts

38. Actuellement, tous nos concitoyens ont bien compris qu'il y avait un défi climatique. All our fellow citizens have now realised that the climate is a challenge.
39. la désertification touche actuellement 25 à 30% de la surface des terres desertification currently affects approximately 25% to 30% of the world's land surface area
40. on en compte plus de 2 millions actuellement to more than 2 million at the most recent count
41. On fait des efforts actuellement. Efforts are currently under way on this front.
42. ils sont actuellement des dizaines de millions there are currently tens of millions of such people
43. qui doit relever les défis auxquels le Soudan est actuellement confronté which has to cope with the challenges currently facing Sudan
44. Donc, effectivement, comme je le fais actuellement, il est du pouvoir de la Présidence de séance de demander aux collègues So the President in the chair is entitled to do as I am now doing, namely to call on two colleagues to speak
45. les choix que nous propose actuellement la Commission the choices that the Commission is now proposing on its own rail network ten years ago.
46. actuellement soumis à l'examen de ce Parlement et du Conseil. which is currently being examined by this Parliament and by the Council
47. S'il doit être poursuivi, le découplage doit tenir compte des difficultés que traversent actuellement certains secteurs If it has to go ahead, decoupling should take account of the difficulties certain sectors are currently experiencing
48. Il existe, actuellement, pas moins de cinq directives relatives à l'égalité des chances et à la non-discrimination dans l'Union européenne. Twenty-eight actions for infringement are in progress against Member States that have not transposed them.
49. Cette pratique qui existe déjà, évolue actuellement en dehors de tout cadre réglementaire, au détriment de la transparence et de la sécurité juridique. This practice already exists, but is currently developing without any regulatory framework and therefore without transparency or legal certainty.

50. Actuellement, aucun grand groupe industriel ne procède à des investissements en Europe. Currently no large industrial group is making investments in Europe.
51. Je ne suis pas sûr que la méthode ouverte de coordination, la méthode qui est actuellement employée, soit la plus efficace. I am not sure that the open method of coordination, which is the method currently used, is the most effective.
52. C'est justement un des objectifs prioritaires de la Commission actuellement. This is precisely one of the priorities of the Commission at this time.
53. Chaque personne doit avoir le droit de rester vivre au pays: actuellement, ce choix n'existe pas! Everyone should have the right to stay and live in their country of birth: the way things are at present they do not have this choice
54. c'est un objectif qui mobilise actuellement toute l'industrie automobile. That is a target that the whole of the motor industry is working on at the moment.
55. nous connaissons actuellement we are currently witnessing
56. La déclaration de la Commission sur les déchets dans la région de Campanie, actuellement prévue à 21 heures We would take the Commission's statement on waste in the Campania region, which is currently scheduled for 9 p.m.

InterCorp – Europarl (EN); actually-actuellement translation equivalents

No.	EN	FR
1.	They have sorted it out and are actually working together	Ils ont résolu la question et travaillent actuellement ensemble
2.	Some politicians forget that Russia is actually Europe's biggest country by population	Certains responsables politiques oublient que la Russie est actuellement le pays le plus peuplé d'Europe
3.	Yet the polar bear population is actually bigger now than it was in the 1940s.	Elle est pourtant plus importante actuellement qu'au cours des années 1940.

4. Mr Paolo De Castro asked on behalf of the Committee that we say what we are actually doing.
5. the economic benefits of actually growing cereals will mean that many of them will plough the land.
6. But 80% of all the funds are actually spent by the Member States.
7. we are actually on will lead to this marriage of convenience ending in a Las Vegas-type divorce.
8. the five biggest Member States, which actually consume 60% of energy, keep much lower standards.
9. there are three Member States who are actually affected.
10. Given that at most only 35% of consumers actually roam
11. The Commission should conduct a comparative analysis of what is actually being made available to SMEs
- M. Paolo De Castro nous a demandé, au nom de la commission, d'expliquer ce que nous faisons actuellement.
- mais le bénéfice économique découlant actuellement de la culture des céréales va pousser beaucoup d'entre eux à labourer ces terres.
- Mais 80% de tous les fonds sont actuellement dépensés par les États membres
- nous empruntons actuellement ne mènera pas ce mariage de convenance à un divorce à Las Vegas.
- les 5 plus gros États membres, qui consomment actuellement 60% de l'énergie totale, garderaient des standards beaucoup plus bas.
- trois États membres sont actuellement touchés
- Étant donné que seuls 35% des consommateurs utilisent actuellement l'itinérance
- La Commission devrait procéder à une analyse comparative afin de déterminer quelles sont les sources de financement en fonds propres actuellement mises à la disposition des PME