

Abstract:

The bachelor thesis "Educational Problems of Children from Divorced Families" discusses the negative impact of divorce on children. I've focused mainly on the problem and delinquent behaviors, changing the school's results, the issue of truancy and overall success of children from divorced families. But also brings answers to important questions: Why divorce rate is increasing ? How to minimize these negative effects of divorce on children?

This thesis is entirely theoretical, but builds on available foreign research that provide the necessary facts and long-term results for this work.