

ANNOTATION

The aim of this thesis is to determine if posturographic examination on the baropodometric multisensoric platform is appropriate for objectification of hereditary ataxia patients. The results showed that posturographic examination on this type of platform is an appropriate tool for neurological status objectification in hereditary ataxia patients and may point to the benefits and limitations of the introduction of rating scales in clinical practice.