

The work aims at the usage of the verbal humour in mediated political debates, with stress on the temporary television debates periodically broadcasted both by the Czech commercial and public service stations.