

Abstrakt

This thesis deals with the analysis of the needs of family with a disabled child. There is included the problematic of family, family conception and function, that family fills up in the society. The thesis gives the basic picture of the concepts disability, possibilities of comprehensive rehabilitation, possibilities and forms of social services, that children with disabilities and their families can use. There are presented the possibilities of special educational support of those families. The aim of the research is to analyze the needs of families caring for a child with a disability and to determine the degree of satisfaction of family needs.

Key words: family, family resilience, disability, comprehensive rehabilitation, family needs, special education, social care