

Abstract

This bachelor's thesis concerns with analysis of electoral support of the Workers' Party of Social Justice (DSSS) in legislative elections of 2010. Results in individual regions of Czech Republic will be analyzed in the thesis, which will be followed by identification of the electoral support and finally, the influence of selected independent variables on election results of the party will be evaluated.