

The settlement context of the oldest rural sacral architecture west of Prague

The presented text is primarily summary of recognized sacral structures from before year 1300 in selected area west of Prague. Recorded structures are being described and placed into spatial and historical context. Paper includes analysis of statistically perceivable attributes of these structures.

Early middle ages - sacral architecture - rural settlements - matronaea - central Bohemia-west