

Annotation:

The research of communication barriers, which appear at students of the secondary school, is the topic of my thesis. The work is divided into two parts – theoretical and practical. The theoretical part is devoted to communication, emphatically to educational communication, communication barriers and at the end also to communication apprehension, which can be one of the communication difficulties.

The empirical part contents the conclusions of the research, which was provided at the school with the teachers and students, using the interview and the questionnaire as the research methods.