

title

Swimming and the disabled in the Context of History

Aim:

Studying thematically relevant historical publications, objective unloading acquired facts and their interpretation of the relevant angles various fields of work.

A method:

Historical studies

results:

Submissions total and comprehensive view on swimming as physical activity individuals disabilities mainly European historical context of relationship companies with individuals with disabilities, swimming activities of individuals without disabilities and health physical activity, including current perspective.

Keywords:

history, swimming, disability, sports games, physical education, sport, society