Topic of the rigorous thesis: Intestate succession in the comparative prospective

ABSTRACT

The main aim of this rigorous thesis named "Intestate succession in comparative prospective" is in particular comparison between current Czech legislation regarding the succession law with the legislation in the area of succession law of few other countries - namely with Spain, Catalonia and Mexico.

This thesis does not deal only with the substantive law in the area of succession, but also with the procedural legislation of succession law, including succession with an international element.

My ambition, while writing this rigorous thesis, was to create a systematic overview of intestate succession in the Czech Republic, by using the valid legislation, experts' literature (mainly foreign) and the case law; pointing out the practical problems of valid legislation and its comparison to the legislation in the area of succession law in the above mentioned countries.
