Title of the thesis:	Institutional Factors affecting Investment Inflows in Transitional Countries

OVERALL ASSESSMENT

The master thesis of Ms Donu Institutional Factors affecting Investment Inflows in Transitional Countries provides econometric tests of influence of institutional factors (represented with indices produced by World Bank and EBRD) on inward FDI in a group of CEE transitional and post-transitional economies. It's an independently developed empirical research paper demonstrating the skills of the author, respecting standards of academic writing, and providing original results. It's fully in accordance with the standards applied by IES for the characteristics of qualification papers on the Master's level. I recommend to evaluate it by grade excellent.
