

Abstract

This bachelor's thesis consists of the translation of the article Absentminded Professor or Romantic Artist? The Depiction of Creativity in Documentary Biographies of Albert Einstein by M. Radcliff and the commentary of the translation, which is constituted by the original text analysis, description of the translation method and the typologies of translation problems and translation shifts. The commentary also includes examples of specific translation problems and their solutions.