

Abstract

Title of Bachelor's thesis:

Case study of physiotherapeutic treatment of patient with diagnosis facial nerve peripheral palsy.

Aim of thesis:

Summary of theoretical findings of patient's diagnosis, study methodology of physiotherapeutic care, treatment design, monitoring of treatment, and evaluate the effect of patient with diagnosis facial nerve peripheral palsy.

Summary:

This thesis comprehensively summarizes the findings of of peripheral facial nerve palsy and it's treatment with physiotherapeutic methods. It gives a wide view at the issue of physiotherapy in facial nerve palsy which is a symptom of many many other diseases. Thesis has the general part, which deals with theoretical findings of diagnosis and special part, containing case report of patient with diagnosis peripheral facial nerve palsy. This Bachelor's thesis was compiled on the base of internship on the District Hospital in Kladno, during the time period 5.-30.1.2015.

Key words:

facial nerve palsy, Bell's palsy, facial muscles, the Kenny Method, peripheral paresis, facial nerve palsy therapy