

Abstract

Title: Analysis of circumstances, which affect attacks on rescuers during a service.

Objectives: Objective of the thesis is to analyze and describe in detail circumstances and possible risks, which can happen during a duty of health service employee.

Methods: This thesis is conceive as quantitative research with using constructed enquiry, which tries to find out set data. In theoretical part is used description of current situation.

Results: Result of the thesis is elaborated analysis of circumstances, which affect attacks on rescuers during a service. Data and results, which were collected, were transformed into graphs with description.

Keywords: Health service, Agression, Patient, Private defense