

Abstract: This thesis describes design and implementation of an application that is used for maintaining the evidence of work activities. The program allows its users to manage and review their activities and activities of their subordinates. Project managers and administrators are able to generate reports where details about employee's activities and projects in the organization are shown. Program is based on the OnlyOffice Community Server application, which is collaborative open-source software for project and document management.