

Abstract

The aim of this work is not only draw attention to current legislation in the field of marital property, with an emphasis on its dissolution and property settlement in the light of current case law. The work also deals with the changes that this issue brings into re-codification of civil law. It also includes a comparison with the legislation in Germany, with whom we are linked by a certain portion of the historical development. All work is completed with current case law.