

The Bachelor thesis will deal with street furniture in Prague. Attention will be focused on contemporary production of street furniture. What is its role in context of shaping public space and how it is now perceived by the public. Its individual elements will be discussed. I attempt to map the current situation in Prague by providing a detailed analysis including various points of view.