

Abstract:

This work provides an overview of selected citation managers currently used in the Czech Republic and compared their functions. In the comparison group, the application will be represented both commercial and freely available applications. In the group of freely available applications the Zotero and Mendeley will be compared, the paid ones will be represented by Endnote, RefWorks and CitacePro.

The comparison is based on the individual features of citation managers, such as the interface for entering records, import records from other sources, sorting into folders, export options to different formats, etc. Further parameters will be compared as the language support, online availability or user support.
