

A square, a circle or other geometric shapes are discovered in the art through the centuries. In many times, these are like the symbols, in the other case, these are like the forms of the picture. Their functions are fading into one another often.

I try to solve the questions in this work:

how does the function of the square and the circle change in the art how role do the shapes play in myself art's work how do children can work with the geometric shapes at first level of the primary school.
