

Abstrakt v angličtině

Diploma thesis is focused on media law in the area of broadcasting. The sources for the diploma thesis were broadcasting legal frameworks of the Czech Republic and the European Union, available case-law and doctrinal findings. The goal of the diploma thesis is to systematically and analytically describe individual institutes of media law in broadcasting, which in sum compose the legal framework of broadcasting in the Czech Republic. Diploma thesis contains systematic definition of broadcasting mainly from the viewpoint of general media theory, furthermore overview of the legal framework of the broadcasting itself. In the diploma thesis is evaluated the legislation concerning traditional broadcasting media and broadcasting through the internet. Diploma thesis furthermore contains chapter dedicated to regulation of broadcasting and regulatory bodies operating in the Czech Republic. The diploma thesis is concluded with a chapter dedicated to further possible developments in media law in the area of broadcasting mainly due to the proposed changes of individual laws.