

Abstract

Name:

Problems of drug abuse in vocational school adolescents with emphasis on their social environment

Goal:

The main goal of my work is to assess the drug abuse situation in youths, taking into account the relationship with close social environments, at gastronomic vocational schools OU and PrŠ Chabařovická, together with the influence of drugs on their use of free time.

Method

In order to ascertain the actual drug situation at OU and PrŠ Chabařovická and possible factors of the social environment influencing the attitude of students towards drugs, sociological research was carried out of the nature:

- Quantitative techniques – questionnaires
- Qualitative techniques – group meetings

Results:

With the help of quantitative unstandardised questionnaire analysis followed by qualitative group interviews the current population of students at OU and PrŠ Chabařovická was mapped, from which results indicate that some of the followed parameters appear in the described population quite often.
